PENNSYLVANIA

Gov. Shafer has ordered state and local police to crack down on speeders and drunk drivers over the New Year's weekend. Disturbed by the fact that Pennsylvania had such a high number of Christmas highway deaths, he said this next weekend will not be a repeat of the past weekend when 47 died.

THE NATION

Gov. George Romney of Michigan expressed surprise over reports that former President Dwight D. Eisenhower had criticized him as a "man who panics." The governor said that Eisenhower had written him a letter about a month ago congratulating him on his candidacy for the Republican presidential nomination next year. In addition, Romney said, the former president wrote that he hoped to see "as many responsible and attractive candidates as possible" in the race.

A nuclear research concern announced that it was ready to market a sputum collection kit designed to help detect lung cancer in its very early stages. The American Cancer Society said the kit may be the equivalent of the pap test for the early detection of cervical cancer. The kit, which will cost about $10, was said to be capable of use by the average person in his own home. It would then be mailed to the company's detection laboratories for analysis.

The government proposes 12 additional safety regulations for automobiles to apply to 1968 models.

THE WORLD

American pilots returning to the attack in North Vietnam immediately after the Christmas cease-fire caught more than 300 enemy trucks on the move and destroyed 91 and damaged 41, according to a United States command spokesman. In what he described as "unusually heavy traffic" that continued after the 24-hour allied cease-fire ended, pilots found and attacked two major convoys, one with 150 trucks and another with 100 vehicles along the southern panhandle.

The State Department said that the United States had sought earlier this month to reassure Cambodia that this country had no hostile intentions toward Cambodian territory. The American reassurances were rejected by the Cambodian government, which complained that the U.S. was seeking to justify military actions in Cambodia by making "groundless" charges of Communist use of Cambodian territory. In a diplomatic note to the United States, Cambodia reaffirmed her contention that no forces of North Vietnam or the Viet Cong were on her territory.

Conciliation efforts between Greece's expatriate king Constantine and his country's military regime, which he tried in vain to topple earlier this month, have reached a deadlock, qualified sources disclosed in Athens. The sources termed an early return of the 27-year-old monarch "improbable."

Gen. William C. Westmoreland says 1967 was a year of great progress in the Vietnamese war. He sees no change in enemy tactics.

Westmoreland Cites 1967 As Year of Progress in Viet

SAIGON (AP)—Gen. William C. Westmoreland described 1967 Tuesday as a year of "great progress" in the Vietnam war, but said he saw no evidence that enemy strategy will change in the coming year.

The commander of U.S. forces in Vietnam estimated in an interview with the Mutual Broadcasting System that the enemy has suffered more than 80,000 men killed in action in 1967, including guerrillas, local forces, Viet Cong main forces and troops of the North Vietnamese army.

About 20,000 of the allies have died in combat this year, American losses through Dec. 16 totaled 9,002.

Westmoreland cited the destruction of various enemy weapons and the opening of roads the Communists once controlled.

"However, I believe the best measure that I know of progress that has been made during 1967 is the improved attitude of the people," he said. "They have an attitude of optimism. Everywhere I go I note a feeling of encouragement. This did not exist to the same extent a year ago."

Asked about enemy strategy in view of large-scale, sustained actions such as the November fighting at Dak To, the commander said Communist tactics ebb and flow, "but basically they have been unchanged since they decided to take over South Vietnam by force."

"From time to time," he said, "they emphasize guerrilla action at the expense of main force action. Occasionally, they will emphasize main force operations and reduce the level of their guerrilla activity."

"However, over a period of time we have observed that their tactics give almost equal emphasis to guerrilla warfare, which concerns terror, sabotage, hit-and-run raids, and at the same time main force operations involving battalions and regiments and now even divisions, where large bodies of troops using modern weapons

Many Feel Tass Report On Explosion Is Too Low

MOSCOW (AP)—Tass said Tuesday nine persons were killed and several were injured in a gas explosion that ripped through a Moscow apartment building Christmas night.

The six-story building was reduced to rubble around a crater in the frozen earth, and to many the official news agency's death toll report seemed low.

One witness at the scene said a policeman told him more than 20 persons were killed and another bystander reported 10 to 12 bodies had been removed from the wreckage.

The building was believed to have contained 24 apartments housing about 100 Russians.

The blast occurred at about 9:20 p.m., when many of the apartments presumably were occupied.

Survivors are being moved into new apartments and given material aid, Tass said.

The newspaper Vechernaya Moskova (Evening Moscow) said a special commission had been set up to investigate the disaster.

The newspaper report and the Tass version appeared only after the explosion had become the talk of Moscow.

Traffic Toll Hits 685 For Holiday Weekend

Traffic deaths during the Christmas celebration topped the tolls of all but one of this year's holiday periods.

The total reached 685 with the inclusion of delayed reports of fatalities that occurred between 6 p.m. Friday and midnight Monday.

That compared with 484 for a nonholiday weekend of the same three-day length.

The National Safety Council, looking ahead, estimated Tuesday that 460 to 540 Americans will lose their lives in motor vehicle accidents in the three-day New Year observance that will start at 6 p.m. Friday and run until midnight Monday.

The council also figured that the nation's traffic toll for the full year of 1967 may be lower than the record 53,000 established in 1960.

Driving Hazardous But Roads Cleared

Snow flurries and a sharp drop in temperatures made driving in Warren County hazardous yesterday but last night the highway department reported main roads and blacktopped secondary roads were dry and well cleared. Back roads in some rural areas are still in need of ploughing, a department official said.

The loss of lives on streets and highways during the Christmas observance exceeded the 584 reported during the 1966 celebration, also three days, but was lower than the record of 720 for Christmas set during a three-day period in 1965.

The council had calculated in advance that between 625 and 725 Americans would be killed.

The five previous national holidays this year had these traffic tolls:

New Year 469 in three days, Memorial Day 608 in four days, Independence Day 732 in four days, Labor Day 604 in three days, Thanksgiving 665 in four days.

The Independence Day and Memorial Day tallies wrote new highs for those two holiday periods, but were lower than the record for any holiday period—748 for the four-day observance of Thanksgiving in 1966.

The council noted that during the first 10 months of this year—the latest checkup available—traffic deaths in the United States added up to 43,110—200 below the tally for the corresponding figure of 1966.

The nonholiday toll was compiled by The Associated Press to provide a basis for comparison. It was made from 6 p.m. Friday Dec. 15 to midnight Monday Dec. 18.

are employed.

"I feel that during the coming year we'll see this same pattern prevail."

The four-star general added he feels the enemy will still attempt to control the people in populated and food-producing areas by the use of guerrilla and local forces.

Gas explosions that wreck Moscow buildings occur from time to time and usually are not reported.

Meanwhile, Soviet photo censors refused to permit the Wirephoto transmission of a photograph of a car belonging to Henry S. Bradsher, Associated Press bureau chief in Moscow.

An explosion underneath the parked car Monday night—only about 15 minutes and a quarter-mile from the apartment house blast—blew off the right front fender, damaged the car's body and smashed windows up to the fourth floor in an adjacent building. The motive was unknown.

The photo showed two Soviet bomb experts examining the car. The censors objected to the photo's caption, which said a bomb had gone off under the car. The investigation was still under way, the censors said.

King's Conciliation Bid Ends in Deadlock with Rulers

(C) N.Y. Times News Service

ATHENS — Conciliation efforts between Greece's self-exiled King Constantine and the country's military regime, which the king tried to overthrow in an abortive counter-coup two weeks ago, have now reached a deadlock, qualified sources disclosed here Tuesday.

These sources termed an early return of the 27-year-old monarch to his throne from his refuge in Rome as "improbable."

They said the regime insisted on a cooling-off period for the Greek officers of the ruling revolutionary committee who had not forgiven the king for opposing them.

However, Greece's Premier Ex-Colonel George Papadopoulos, in a warm Christmas greetings message to the King Monday, reassured him that the government would uphold the constitutional monarchy and keep the throne for Constantine's future return.

The deadlock came despite several trips between Athens and Rome by Greek notables who are close to the young king and his family.

Retired Air Vice Marshal Haralambos Potamianos, who flew three times to Rome within a week to see the king after talks with Papadopoulos, denied to night he had ever told reporters that the king would "return within a few days."

Meanwhile, the Greek regime continued today the release of prisoners under the Christmas amnesty announced by Papadopoulos last Saturday.

The extent of the amnesty is still not known, but one of the revolutionary leaders, Col. Ioannis Ladas, secretary general for public order, said Tuesday that none of the 2,500 Communists imprisoned on the Aegean Islands of Lesbos and Mytilene would benefit.

The colonel said earlier that approximately 300 people would be set free under the amnesty.

At least 80 political prisoners have been freed from jail or exile so far, including Andreas Papandreu, the controversial politician and son of Ex-Premier George Papandreu who heavy machine guns, recoilless rifles and mortars.

Over North Vietnam, where U.S. pilots reported destroying or damaging about 100 trucks in the first few hours after the allied cease-fire ended, monsoons kept U.S. bombers out of the Hanoi heartland.

Virtually all strikes reported in Wednesday morning commu-niques were in the southern panhandle.

U.S. air units lost no time in going after the convoys after the cease-fire ended, and Monday night caught a 150-truck convoy reported to stretch seven miles through North Vietnam's midsection south of Thanh Hoa.

Cambodia Rejects U.S. Offer Despite Assurances

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite U.S. assurances of no hostile intentions toward Cambodia, that Southeast Asian kingdom has rejected a Dec. 4 U.S. offer to help bolster international inspection of the Vietnam-Cambodia border.

State Department press officer Robert J. McCloskey said Tuesday the United States will "continue to seek an amicable settlement of this problem of the use of Cambodian territory by Viet Cong and North Vietnam army units."

Since American newsmen in late November reported use of neutral Cambodian territory for a Communist base of attack on U.S. and South Vietnamese Army forces, there has been increased pressure on the Johnson administration to authorize hot pursuit of the Viet Cong into Cambodia.

While U.S. officials refuse to say what decision may be reached by the White House on this question, they made clear that U.S. commanders now have authority to take what measures are necessary to repel Viet Cong attacks from the Cambodian side of the border.

The Cambodian foreign ministry note was sent through the Australian government since Cambodia and the United States have no direct ties, relations were broken in 1965.

The note denounced the United States for "flagrant violations of international law . . ." and accused the United States of daily intrusions into Cambodia.

—Renewal of support to several proposals made by the United States or other countries to seek a solution to the border problem.

dian air space, attacks and bombings on the civilian population in the frontier zones and "infiltrations by commandos for the purposes of sabotage and assassination of which the U.S. and allied armed forces are guilty."

The note said Prince Norodom Sihanouk's government considers as a "groundless accusation" the alleged problem of violation of Cambodian neutrality by North Vietnam and Viet Cong units.

The Cambodian note said no trace had been found of the Viet Cong guerrilla camp when an inquiry was made by the International Control Commission.

The note said also that the Sihanouk government is determined to oppose "with all the forces at its disposal" any military operations launched against its territory, "under whatever pretext."

It was expected that there would be a U.S. response to the latest Cambodian note. The text of the U.S. Dec. 4 proposal was not made public. But the State Department spokesman said it contained three assurances:

—Continued U.S. respect for the neutrality, sovereignty, independence and territorial integrity of Cambodia;

—No hostile U.S. intentions toward Cambodia or Cambodian territory;

Romney Is Surprised At Eisenhower Remarks

(C) N.Y. Times News Service

SAIGON—Gov. George Romney of Michigan expressed surprise Tuesday at reports that former President Eisenhower had criticized him as a "man who panics."

The governor said that General Eisenhower had written him a letter only about a month ago congratulating him on his candidacy for the Republican presidential nomination next year. In addition, Romney said, the former president wrote that he hoped to see "as many responsible and attractive candidates as possible" in the race.

Romney declined further comment on Eisenhower's remarks. He said he did not know whether they would adversely affect his campaign.

However, aides traveling with the Michigan governor conceded that the general's remarks, as one of them put it, "hurt."

The Romney camp has known for some time, despite public statements to the contrary, that Eisenhower was unhappy with many of Romney's comments on Vietnam, but he did not expect this disagreement to spill over into public view now.

The general said in an interview in India, Calif., over the weekend that Romney had the appearance of a "man who panics" and had not taken a consistent stand on the issues. The New York Times reported that it understood that Eisenhower had eliminated Romney in his own mind as a serious contender.

The governor said he did not know what Eisenhower's reference to "panic" meant. He said that he presumed that the general had criticized him for a lack of consistency because of his remark that he had been brainwashed into supporting American policy in Vietnam during a visit to the war zone in late 1965.

"I have said again and again," the governor said at a meeting with a small group of journalists, "that I changed my mind on only one thing: the moral necessity for United States intervention in South Vietnam on the massive scale of today."

Romney said when he arrived in Saigon on Christmas Eve that he was sure he could avoid being brainwashed again. But he and his entourage have not entirely succeeded in avoiding the set-piece briefings routinely given to visiting dignitaries.

Few Bars to Open New Year's Eve

Two thirds of the bars and taverns in Warren County will not be open Sunday despite legislation passed by the General Assembly permitting drinking establishments to open New Year's Eve.

The proprietors of less than a half dozen taverns said they would be open and several of those said guests would have to make reservations before Sunday.

Two Private Economists Predict Record Expansion

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two private economists, both former federal officials, predicted Tuesday that the record economic expansion will continue next year but with more inflation and unemployment.

The predictions came from Dr. Gerhard Colm, chief economist for the National Planning Association, a nonprofit, nonpolitical research group, and Dr. Carl H. Madden, chief economist for the U.S. Chamber of Commerce.

Both foresee price increases next year of about 3.5 per cent compared with this year's 3 per cent, and Madden predicted an unemployment rate over all of 4.2 per cent during 1968 largely because of "a less strong second half."

Colm gave no exact prediction on unemployment but said it should rise slightly from the 3.9 per cent average of this year.

Both said prices will rise even higher—Colm predicted an additional 2 per cent if Congress does not pass the 10 per cent tax surcharge requested by President Johnson and no brakes are placed on credit.

Colm is a former senior economist for the President's Council of Economic Advisers while Madden is a former economist for the Federal Reserve Bank of New York.

Both men foresee almost identical increases in federal spending next year despite efforts to trim nondefense items. Madden fixed the increase at 10 per cent above calendar 1967 and Colm at $17.6 billion.

LBJ Back To Work In Texas

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson flew to his Texas ranch Tuesday to get back to work on budget and other problems and to meet early in January with Prime Minister Levi Eshkol of Israel.

The President and his family had spent Christmas at the White House for the first time. Now Johnson will be at the ranch for perhaps two weeks or more, blending work and relaxation.

Eshkol is coming to this country to push an Israeli bond drive. Johnson invited him and his wife to the ranch for a visit Jan. 7-8 that previously had been set for February. The earlier date was made possible by the setting of mid-January for the reconvening of Congress.

Johnson will be facing up in the interim to the drafting of his state of the union message outlining his administration's program for the year ahead and to finishing up a budget for the 1969 fiscal year, that may go beyond $140 billion.

White House Press Secretary George Christian said budget director Charles Schultze will be coming to the ranch a time or two and some cabinet officers will be coming down from Washington, all on budget affairs.

The procession will be starting this week, Christian said.

Christian said in answer to a question that Johnson would be thinking during his Texas stay of a replacement for Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara. He said, though, that he did not know whether an announcement would come through while Johnson is here.

McNamara has turned in his resignation and will become president of the World Bank.

Christian said Johnson already had talked with McNamara in Washington about the defense budget, as well as with members of the Joint Chiefs of Staff and the civilian heads of the Armed Forces branches.

The Johnson ranch is 75 miles north of San Antonio.

Laos Reports Attacks By North Vietnamese

SAIGON (AP) — Laotian military sources said Wednesday that recent attacks on government posts in Laos were conducted by seven battalions of North Vietnamese troops probably on their way down to infiltrate South Vietnam.

The North Vietnamese regularly, possibly 5,000 men, were moving south with heavy mortars and some artillery, the sources said.

The Laotian Embassy said it had received no official word from its government since the Defense Ministry statement Tuesday night which reported two government posts had been attacked by North Vietnamese regulars.

The report over Vientiane radio said, "The military situation was very critical and tense."

In Washington, sources in the Pentagon and in the State Department tended to downgrade the military action. "It's about that time of the year in Laos," one military official observed.

"Usually, when the weather begins to dry out a bit you get these clashes in the Laotian panhandle," sources with knowledge of the area remarked.

Washington officials described the Communist probes as designed to tighten security along the Ho Chi Minh Trail, and as a means of obtaining food—rather than territory—from the rice-rich area.

No U.S. official was prepared to discount the possibility of major military activity. "There's no telling what might happen from one day to the next," said one, "but for the time being I would say there is nothing unusual in the current activity."

Military sources in Saigon said the attacks were launched against the post of Nam Bac, north of the royal capital of Luang Prabang, and Phalanx, in the Savannakhet region close to the Ho Chi Minh trail.

Military sources said three battalions hit the lightly defended post of Nam Bac, and communications with the post had been cut off. Nam Bac is in the far north, some 50 miles from the North Vietnamese frontier area largely controlled by the Communist Pathet Lao.

North Vietnamese regular troops in this area would be far from the regular infiltration routes south.

The attack at Phalanx, Laotian officers said, was conducted by elements of four battalions. It was believed the post withstood the attacks, but precise information was lacking.

Phalanx is about 75 miles west of the Vietnamese border just at the 17th parallel. Red troops in this area could well be heading south and west to join units in South Vietnam. There are also many Pathet Lao forces in the region.

World's Scarcest People At Annual Science Conclave

(C) N.Y. Times News Service

NEW YORK — Some of the world's scarcest people — ecologists, herpetologists, speleologists — together with garden variety biologists and mathematicians arrived here Tuesday to attend the opening of the most prestigious science meeting of the year, and perhaps to find another job.

The job hunters and their colleagues are members of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, an organization that brings together 296 societies and 47 academies of science.

The association's 134th annual meeting, which will end Friday, as usual involves the presentation of scientific papers, the holding of symposiums, a display of technical exhibits and tours of local scientific attractions.

About 10,000 experts in fields ranging from astronomy to zoology are expected to attend the sessions at four hotels.

In the basement of the Americana Hotel, the process of bringing together job seekers and employers was under way Tuesday. "Zoologists, botanists and agricultural experts seem to be in the greatest demand," said Irving Smith, director of the placement project.

Smith works for the professional placement center of the New York State Employment Service, which has undertaken the project with federal funds and the cooperation of the association.

Smith said he expected as many as 1,000 persons to take advantage of the free services. He added that the organization offered its services to more than a dozen conventions a year in New York, but that the association meeting was different than most. "Many people in these science categories are as scarce as hen's teeth and are sought over by the organizations needing them," he said.

Among the scientific areas in which jobs were offered were ecology, the study of organisms and their environments; herpetology, the study of reptiles and amphibians; and speleology, the study of caves.

Universities, industrial concerns, hospitals, private laboratories and governmental agencies are the main prospective employers, Smith said. The job seekers are from the United States, South America, Europe and Asia.

Smith said money and fringe benefits were, in themselves, not the only reasons why highly trained scientific people changed employers. "The attitude of the company toward the employee also is important," he said.

Many of the job seekers really are not looking too hard, he noted. "A lot of people are shopping to see what is on the other side of the fence," he said. "This is good because it tends to stabilize the job market since many of the positions vacant are worse than those seeking them now have, and they know it."

The meeting is the ninth to be held in New York since the association was founded in 1848 and the first to take place here since 1960.

The local educational TV station, WNBT, will present more than 40 hours of convention coverage. The broadcasts, made possible by a grant from the Ford Foundation, also will be telecast by 11 television stations in the east.

Kit to Detect Lung Cancer Said to be Ready for Market

(C) N.Y. Times News Service

NEW YORK — Nuclear Research Associates, Inc., announced Tuesday that it was ready to market a sputum collection kit designed to help detect lung cancer in its very early stages.

The American Cancer Society's New York City division said that the kit may be the equivalent of the pap test for the early detection of cervical cancer.

According to the division's president, Dr. S. B. Gusberg, the kit may make possible for the first time mass screening for lung cancer in its earliest and most curable stages.

However, a spokesman for the cancer society said it is not yet known whether the sputum test can detect lung cancer at as early a stage as the pap test detects cervical cancer. Use of the pap test has halved the incidence of cervical cancer.

If, in fact, the new device is as effective as claimed, it could

Israeli Premier

Will Visit

President

(C) N.Y. Times News Service

SAN ANTONIO, Texas — The White House announced Tuesday that Premier Levi Eshkol of Israel will visit President Johnson at his ranch about 75 miles northwest of this central Texas city on Jan. 7 and 8.

The announcement of Eshkol's visit was made by the presidential press secretary, George Christian, shortly after Johnson flew to Texas from Washington to rest after his 27,000-mile, 112-hour trip last week.

Christian said Eshkol's visit would be an informal and private one and declined to state what the President and the Premier planned to discuss. Eshkol will be accompanied by his wife.

There was speculation that the major topic of discussion would be Israel's desire to acquire about 50 American F-4 Phantom fighter-bombers, the most advanced of operational United States jets, as the main Israeli battle aircraft of the early 1970's.

Israel had planned to acquire French jets to strengthen its air force during this period, but now wants American planes instead. This is in part a result of a French embargo on the shipment of arms to belligerents in the recent Arab-Israeli war. The main battle plane of the Israeli air force is now the French Super Sonic Mirage-III.

The United States has so far refused to sell Israel the Phantoms.

Fire in Truck

Firemen extinguished a fire in the driver's compartment of a logging truck at the Glade Keystone station on Pennsylvania ave. yesterday about noon. The blaze in the vehicle, owned by J. J. Yucha, Tidoute, broke out at the service station and was confined to the cab, firemen said.

Check Break In

The sheriff's office is investigating a Christmas night break in at the Pratz Antique Shop on Main st. in Sugar Grove.

The thieves apparently made entry through a side door but nothing was reported missing. The owner discovered the break in when he opened the store yesterday afternoon.

Municipal Association Recognized by Council

JAMESTOWN, N.Y. — The Municipal Civil Service Association of Jamestown was recognized by city council last night as the sole bargaining agent for certain civil service employees in the city government.

The outgoing Democratic city council took the action in the face of opposition from the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, AFL-CIO, Peter J. Zanghi, business agent for the AFL-CIO affiliate, called the resolution illegal, claiming it would give the civil service association blanket coverage crossing departmental lines, which he said was not in keeping with existing New York State law.

Most of the employees involved are located at the municipal laboratory, city hall and Jamestown General Hospital. Attorney Tuby L. Scarpino, representing the employees, noted that more than 90 per cent of the employees involved had signed petitions favoring the civil service association.

Following the defeat of a motion to table the entire matter, Scarpino, Zanghi and corporation counsel Samuel B. Conte adjourned to Mayor Dunn's office to "resolve the situation."

Upon their return to council chambers, Conte told the council it had the right and certainly the duty to approve the resolution in view of the petitions submitted by the civil service association. He noted Zanghi's union had filed no petitions nor indicated any interest in being considered as a possible bargaining agent for the employees involved.

In other council business, a resolution to carry forward about $45,000 in state and county taxes to the 1968 budget was passed. Another resolution authorized an agreement with the Lincoln Medical Building for use of city property as a parking lot in exchange for an easement for a storm sewer.

While the outgoing council was conducting its final meeting, the personnel committee of the incoming council met in executive session with union representatives of the employees of the DPW and parks department to discuss salary increases and fringe benefits.

Peace Corps Withdrawing 57 Volunteers

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Peace Corps announced Tuesday it is withdrawing its 57 volunteers from Gabon at the request of the government of that French-speaking West African nation.

The note from the Gabonese government, which was received last week, gave no reason for ending the Peace Corps activities, a corps spokesman said. But he added the note expressed "our sincere thanks" for the corps' work in Gabon.

"We go to a country at the invitation of the host government, and whenever a government wishes us to leave, we do so willingly," the spokesman said.

The corps has had volunteers in Gabon for four years.

Altogether 190 volunteers have served there since April 1963. Most of them—130—were rural school construction volunteers, while 58 others were teachers in secondary and vocational schools and two served as mechanics.

No date was set for the volunteers to return home but up to 90 days is usually allowed for such a transition.

A year ago, the Peace Corps was asked to leave French-speaking Guinea in a political squabble and volunteers were ordered out of Mauritania last summer during the Arab-Israeli conflict.

Police Chief Announces Get Tough Policy

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Police Chief Walter Headley said Tuesday he is declaring war on young Negro criminals "who have taken advantage of the civil rights campaign," abandoning his community relations program and laying plans to meet any civil uprising with shooting.

"Felons will learn that they can't be bonded out from the morgue," said Headley in a news conference. "We don't mind being accused of police brutality. They haven't seen anything yet."

"Community relations and all that sort of thing has failed. We have done everything we could, sending speakers out and meeting with Negro leaders. But it has amounted to nothing," Headley said.

"We haven't had any serious problems with civil uprising and looting because I've let the word filter down that when the looting starts, the shooting starts," the police chief told newsmen.

Headley said his self-proclaimed "get tough" policy was prompted by three murders in Miami's Negro area over the Christmas weekend and a wave of holdup shootings that preceded them.

Marvin Davies, state field director of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP), when told of Headley's plan, said: "This man has no place in a position of public trust."

Frenchmen Are Optimistic About European Unity

(C) N.Y. Times News Service
PARIS — Despite President de Gaulle's veto of Britain's entry into the Common Market, the average Frenchman is far more optimistic about eventual European unity than any of his neighbors — especially the British.

These and other attitudes were revealed Tuesday in a wide-ranging survey of how the French see the world in the year 2000.

Asked if they thought Europe would be "one country" by the turn of the century, 43 per cent replied yes. But according to the French Institute of Public Opinion, the same question brought a positive response from only 25 per cent of the British, 27 per cent of the Germans and 30 per cent of the Italians.

Americans were the most pessimistic of all; only 17 per cent agreed while 63 per cent rejected the possibility.

All five nationalities polled were agreed on one subject: roughly 90 per cent in each country believed that the most important issue facing the world between now and 2000 is finding a cure for cancer. The abolition of war was next in importance everywhere but in England, where second place priority was given to "reducing the work-load to a 30-hour week."

Only a handful in the multinational part of the poll evinced interest in travel to outer space, and only the Italians expressed strong preference (35 per cent) for prolonging one's average life span to 100 years.

The poll of Frenchmen covered a cross section of 2,000 people 20 years or older. It revealed a composite picture of a people basically optimistic about the future, particularly the prospects of avoiding war and bringing about increased material benefits. But there was obvious concern about the mushrooming cities, air pollution, noise, and future relations between youth and family in modern industrial society.

Nearly half thought there would be no war between now and the end of the century. Of the 37 per cent who thought war likely, the most pessimistic were those over 65 with vivid memories of World Wars 1 and 11.

A majority believed French families would have fewer children but 59 per cent felt there would be no progress in reducing juvenile delinquency in the cities. Other highlights of French opinion included:

... Life and leisure: By the year 2000, most Frenchmen thought it "possible" for a majority of citizens to have a home in the country, roughly half thought they would be living in plastic houses, and the same number predicted that science would discover a technique for producing rain. Most thought that all Frenchmen would speak a second language, probably English, and half or more thought retirement at 50 and two month vacations with pay were a distinct possibility.

... Health: 84 per cent predicted a cure for cancer and dramatic improvement in mental health; and 47 per cent thought they would be taking less, not more, medicines.

... Travel: The majority foresaw the abolishment of passports and customs, with jet planes carrying more than 1,000 passengers from Paris to New York in one hour. But 68 per cent thought it would be impossible for tourists to travel to the moon — and few cared about space travel, even if it could be undertaken safely.

... Employment: More than half believed that "nearly all" women would be employed. While there would be no overall solution to the problems of unemployment, air pollution, traffic congestion and noise, most Frenchmen (60 per cent) felt that there would be more "social equality" among the classes.

Red Defector Will Study At Stanford

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) — The highest ranking Communist diplomat ever to defect to the United States, Hungarian Janos Radvanyi, is going to study at Stanford University.

Radvanyi's appointment as a scholar in residence, effective next month, was announced Tuesday by Carl B. Spaeth, chairman of the university's International Studies Committee.

Spaeth said Radvanyi had first expressed an interest in obtaining a Ph.D. in history on political science at Stanford, but consulted with university scholars and decided instead to spend the next two years writing one or two volumes on decision-making in Communist foreign policy.

Radvanyi will study at Stanford under an Institute for International Education grant. Radvanyi, 45, career ambassador, was charge d'affaires of the Hungarian embassy in Washington when he defected. The U.S. State Department announced last May 17 his decision to seek U.S. citizenship.

McCarthy Billboard Posted in New York

(C) N.Y. Times News Service
NEW YORK — The Coalition For A Democratic Alternative jumped the gun Tuesday on the New Year by putting up the first 1968 political billboard — a sign 80 feet long advertising "McCarthy For President."

The sign is 12 feet high and features a tremendously enlarged photograph of Senator Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota.

It stretches along the side of a midtown building housing the coalition's state headquarters. It commands a view from all parts of Columbus Circle and a good part of Broadway south of Lincoln Center.

McCarthy is scheduled to be the main speaker at the coalition's organizing convention here on Jan. 6. A formal endorsement of his candidacy is expected by acclamation at the convention.

Move to the Left?

Ever since Ralph Nader's "Unsafe at Any Speed" hit the best-seller list Congress has been leaning over backward to get into the act and come up with regulations that will impress the public with the deep concern the lawmakers have for their constituents.

The latest of these laws, dealing with the safety factor in automobile tires, had its passage announced in the news media with all of the fanfare of a Hollywood premiere. Alan S. Boyd, secretary of transportation, is reported as saying, "Now injury and death on the highways will largely be the result of human error, not of design and equipment deficiencies."

Hasn't "human error" always been the major problem? Hasn't the nut at the steering wheel always accounted for an overwhelming percentage of all automobile accidents? It's a certain fact we read and hear of far more accidents wherein the driver failed to negotiate a curve and hit a tree than we do of design and equipment deficiencies.

Today tire problems are so rare that it's an odd driver who gives more than an occasional thought to the "shoes" on the old buggy. And after what seems to be millions of miles of road travel, how many of us can recall a single time when we had a close call because of equipment failure? But most of us can recall a dozen or more times when human error darned near did us in. Sweden recently proved that the real way to make highways safer and reduce fatalities is to force the driver to be cautious. When that country changed over from driving on the left-hand side of the road to driving on the right-hand side, fatalities dropped over 50 per cent. The changeover forced the Swedes to go slow and easy, keep both hands on the wheel, their eyes on the road, and their minds on what they were doing. And in the end, that's all it takes to avoid accidents.

This is enough to make one wonder if our own nation couldn't benefit by reversing the Swedish formula—go over to driving on the left-hand side of the road for awhile. Then when we became so accustomed to this arrangement that the accident rate started to climb again, switch it back. A change every five or six years should do the trick.

The changeover didn't bring mass murder to Swedish highways, as was predicted, so it shouldn't be too disastrous here. And it could be the only way we ever will reduce the 13-million auto accidents and 53,000 deaths that occur on our highways annually.

At least it offers another suggestion.

Sorrow on a Joyful Day

WASHINGTON — The feast is over, with all its multiplied excesses of food and wine and noise and people. Perhaps ridiculously, the oldest of the tribe wants the youngsters of the tribe to see what it was like when he, the very oldest, was still the very youngest.

The Malaga raisins and the paper-shelled almonds, the useless quantities of turkey and God knows what else are not exactly to the taste of the tribe's new entry, who would probably prefer a hamburger and a soft drink. Still, there it is—the strong grip of the American past on anyone who has been lucky in America and is nearing 60. So this once each year the young must put up with a pastiche of a time long gone.

When it is over, the shadows are beginning to lengthen. In the last century, when America was simpler and more hopeful, "dinner" occurred in the late afternoon. And in honor of that past, so generally forgotten, Christmas dinner (which is really luncheon) still begins at 2 p.m.

In the winter afternoon, just a bit fuddled with food and talk and wine, the oldest of the tribe asks one of the youngest of the tribe to join him in an expedition. Barring the spring, you see, when the stellate magnolias he loved so much are blooming, this is the best time to visit the President's grave.

One of just three gardens ever completed by the greatest of our modern garden designers looks almost better in winter than in summer. No one knows it, but when Bunny Mellon made her first great finished garden for the President out of that dreary waste, the White House Rose Garden, she dug up the button—the theoretically ever-active link between the Commander-in-Chief and the Strategic Air Command. And while the whole of SAC surged into air-borne alert and for a few instants all of top-level Washington pulsed with alarm, all she said was:

"I've always believed in deep preparation for any planting. And if that cable was so badly buried, with no protection at all, it's just as well that we dug it up making the garden before somebody else did it with worse ideas."

But that is another story. With the magnolias showing their fine branch-tracery, with all the other planting in sparely elegant winter dress, amid the great cemetery for America's war-dead, in the long line of simple people come on this special day to pay their respects to one they loved, it is profoundly moving to visit John F. Kennedy's grave.

The new-dug graves for the fallen in Vietnam show raw in the near-distance. A dowdy old woman leaves a dowdy little posy and weeps a little as she puts it down. One thinks of the best years of one's own life, so unexpectedly experienced, not in youth, not in joyfulness and the first satisfactions of success, but amid the never-escapable onset of age and staleness and exhaustion.

This should be a joyful day, for on this very day Our Lord was born who freely gave His life to save the world. One should give thanks and be grateful. But if you annually make this visit that has been described, it is not easy to rejoice.

The dead President, be it noted, was no saint or holy

MASON DENISON

Yowls of Anguish

HARRISBURG — Are the yowls of anguish now being heard over Pennsylvania's $328 million tax increase justified? Fundamentally it depends on how you look at it, a point perhaps well worth exploring.

In the first place, the $328 million figure itself may look somewhat odd, inasmuch as figures ranging from $275 to $345 million have been used in recent days. To avoid further confusion, this column checked the tax increase program in detail with the Governor's Budget Office; the figures used are from that sanctum.

To begin with the $328 million figure ($327,800,000 if you want to be specific) represent the first full fiscal year's intake under the tax increase schedule approved finally last week — the fiscal year July 1, 1968 to June 30, 1969.

As to whether the tax increase is justified depends on how you look at it. In its simplest form, either the tax monies must be provided or Pennsylvania's taxpayers must suffer a cutback in programs and services.

Whether some of these programs are warranted or needed has been one of the prime points of legislative dispute during the past year — a point for the individual taxpayer to resolve in his own mind.

A second point in determining whether the yowls of anguish over the increased tax load are justified perhaps revolves around the "means" of obtaining the additional funds. Who is getting "soaked" the hardest within the realm of the new $328 million tax increase schedule? Here's one way to look at it: Five-sixths of the new $328 million tax upage will be borne by the consuming peasantry; in other words this five-sixths embraces what are known as "consumer taxes" — to the tune of $274 million.

Who then will pay the balance — the remaining $54 million? This comes under the heading of "business taxes" — or in other words, one-sixth of the entire tax load increase. And of course the natural reaction becomes one of: "Well, for Pete's sake, what's the idea of letting business get away with this sort of balderdash!"

In a practical sense, the answer can perhaps be reduced to this simple theme: over-tax business and knock it out (and the jobs that go with it) and then has the money to pay the consumer taxes?

In recent years both Democratic and Republican administrations in Pennsylvania have been striving mightily to create a tax balance on the business versus consumer tax front — the idea being to make Pennsylvania as attractive as possible for new and expanding businesses. The fact that it has worked so well is under-scored by the new industries and new jobs coming to the Keystone State within the past decade.

Historically Democrats and organized labor have almost blindly fought the idea of consumer taxes as "beastly oppressive to the little man" — the consumer. Interestingly, it was during the tenure of Democratic Governor David L. Lawrence that Democrats in a determined effort to woo business and industry to Pennsylvania (with the obvious resultant influx of new jobs) began to espouse in earnest the "equitable tax climate for business" theme.

No one of course really enjoys paying taxes; you could levy the tax on business and save the consumer from consumer taxes — but then without a job how would you pay for the (untaxed) commodity?

Let us cast our minds forward a bit and imagine ourselves at the Olympics in Mexico City. All the best Negro athletes in America have decided to show up. The final in the 100-yard dash is about to begin and America's last chance of winning a gold medal rests upon Frank Kennedy, the black hope. The runners are on their mark; they are set! bang! down the track at the speed of light streak the dash men of the Soviet Union, Malaysia, Ecuador, Nepal and St. Pierre and Miquelon. The tape is broken just as the black hope is rising respectfully out of the blocks. "What's the matter with you, Kennedy?" the American coach shrieks. "Why didn't you get up out of those blocks?"

"I'm sorry, coach, but you know the country you got mad at me if I started getting up-pity."

Now we go to the 1,000 meter race. The United States is represented by the internationally renowned "Alabama black streak," Guinness Stout. At the sound of the gun, Stout dashes into the lead, leaving the rest of the field eating cinders. At the 400-meter mark, he looks back, sees his opponents far behind and slows to a walking pace. "Keep running, Guinness!" shouts the coach. "That really wouldn't solve anything, would it?" Stout asks. "What do you mean?"

"I mean you can't be in too much of a hurry about these things. If you start going too fast, you just get a lot of people filled up and you end up making a lot of trouble."

RUSSELL BAKER Gradualism At The Olympics

(c) N.Y. Times News Service
WASHINGTON — Negro athletes will be making a mistake if they boycott the Olympic games, as some threaten to do, in protest against racism in the United States. The Olympic races provide the ideal stage for dramatizing the situation they deplore, and the sensible course will be for them to seize it instead of turning their backs upon it.

Let us cast our minds forward a bit and imagine ourselves at the Olympics in Mexico City. All the best Negro athletes in America have decided to show up. The final in the 100-yard dash is about to begin and America's last chance of winning a gold medal rests upon Frank Kennedy, the black hope. The runners are on their mark; they are set! bang! down the track at the speed of light streak the dash men of the Soviet Union, Malaysia, Ecuador, Nepal and St. Pierre and Miquelon. "Keep running, Guinness!" shouts the coach. "That really wouldn't solve anything, would it?" Stout asks. "What do you mean?"

"I mean you can't be in too much of a hurry about these things. If you start going too fast, you just get a lot of people filled up and you end up making a lot of trouble."

The other runners come thundering past and disappear in a cloud of dust with a hearty "Heigh Ho, Kosygin!" The American coach is in tears as Stout crosses the finish line at a slow trot and is greeted by the other runners, all of whom are now fully rested.

"What happened?" the reporters ask Stout. "I ran it the American way," Stout says. "These things take time, you know. If you want to accomplish anything you've got to move slow."

Meanwhile, the shot-put competition has begun. It is between the Russian Vasily Bicepovich, the Frenchman Charles de Gaulle and the American Holtz O'Hara, who grew up tossing cotton bales in Mississippi. Bicepovich tosses the shot 96 feet. De Gaulle, naturally, could beat him by a long shot, but announces instead that he is withdrawing from the games. O'Hara takes his first toss. It goes 4 feet 7 1/2 inches.

"What are you doing?" screams the American ambassador to the Olympics. "Don't worry, boss," says O'Hara. "I don't want no trouble. We're not just dealing with muscle here, you know. We're dealing with the hearts and minds of men and I know you can't shoot for too much right away."

"What are you going to do?" asks the ambassador. "I'm going to use gradualism," says O'Hara. "Watch this."

He winks, picks up the lead shot for his second toss, crouches back, then springs forward and tosses the shot a distance of 5 feet 7 1/2 inches. "What's America going to think?" wails the ambassador. "Gee, boss, I'm sorry, but I don't want anybody thinking I want to move too fast. In some things like this you've got to be willing to take one step at a time, and my step is exactly 12 inches long."

"But moving one step at a time means you'll need at least 90 more tosses to get anywhere near the neighborhood of that Russian, and you've only got one toss left," says the ambassador.

"That's right," said O'Hara, "but what you've got to face up to is that this thing is going to take years, maybe generations. You want to go too far too fast?"

"Just get up there near the Russian," begs the ambassador. "I'm sorry, boss," says O'Hara, "tossing the shot 6 feet 7 1/2 inches, but I've been taught better than to go barging into other people's neighborhoods until two or three generations of heartland-minded changing have prepared people to accept me. Besides, it might lower shot-put values."

FBI Listened to Both Parties

WASHINGTON — The famous FBI bug in Fred Black's Sheraton-Carlton Hotel suite, which started the national uproar over eavesdropping, picked up some startling conversations involving house GOP Leader Gerald Ford.

The wiretapping, which had to be authorized by Attorney General Bobby Kennedy, appeared to be aimed in part at spying on Vice President Johnson's Southwest political friends. It was known at the time that no love was lost between the Vice President and the late President's brother.

However, the FBI's efficient electronic devices also picked up conversations involving Republicans. Especially interesting is revelation of the manner in which defense contracts became involved in politics.

On April 23, 1963, two AVCO Corporation executives, unaware that their every word was being taped by the FBI, discussed freely how Rep. Ford of Michigan had intervened to help spare them from a federal investigation.

The Army had awarded AVCO two negotiated contracts to produce transistor radios for tanks, jeeps and other military vehicles. This aroused them some sticky questions about the Army's failure to seek competitive bids.

When government auditors began poking into the matter, AVCO's president James Kerr and executive committee chairman Earl "Red" Blaik hurried to Washington to see what could be done about sidetracking the investigation. Unhappily for them, they stopped by the suite of their Washington representative, Fred Black, to discuss strategy.

What the FBI heard is still supposed to be kept under wraps. The listening device was so secret that the FBI's own internal reports, though highly classified, referred to it only as "Informant WF 1441-C (asterisk)." +

However, we believe the public is entitled to know about the wire-pulling and wiretapping that goes on in Washington.

In this case, Blaik reported to Kerr on his visit that morning with "Jerry," whom the FBI identified as Congressman Jerry Ford. Blaik said Jerry had not only discussed the contract trouble with Wilson but had arranged with House Appropriations Chairman George Mahon, D-Tex., to question Comptroller General Joseph Campbell about his investigation.

"So yesterday afternoon in their meeting, their appropriations meeting," related Blaik, "why they had Campbell in. So they threw it up to Campbell. They wanted to know why he had men over there, and he said he didn't, so they said they found out what he was telling was not correct, although it was partially correct."

It's interesting that Comptroller General Campbell is charged by Congress to investigate the executive branch of government for Congress, yet in this case Congressmen were trying to sidetrack the investigation.

"So he (Campbell) said that Wilson had asked him to look into two cases," Blaik continued, not knowing every word was being recorded by the FBI. "Jerry was trying to find out what the two cases were. He finally got the dope. He said he was investigating for Wilson an Admiral contract and a Bendix contract, and AVCO was not in on it."

Meanwhile, however, an FBI agent called at AVCO's Crosley plant in Cincinnati. Blaik in Black's suite the following day, Blaik phoned Congressman Ford to report this latest development. The FBI bug picked up only Blaik's end of the conversation.

"Say, Jerry," began Blaik, "I want to cut you in on this one thing. Out at Crosley's yesterday, they had an FBI man."

He responded to some remarks from Congressman Ford, then said: "Uhh! Well, he must have made some complaint to the Department of Justice, wouldn't you think so? . . . Yet! That's what he is trying to do, try to show that there is some stuff in here other than ordinary. . . . He was investigating certain aspects of the VRC-12 (Army terminology for the vehicular radios)."

Kerr, at Blaik's side, said: "I'll send him a transcript of the interview."

Blaik repeated this to Ford on the phone: "Matter of fact, we'll send you a transcript of the interview. Yeah! Well, I thought you ought to know it. We'll send it to you."

This seemed to upset the FBI, which noted in its secret report: "Copies of this communication are being furnished Cincinnati and Detroit inasmuch as one of the items discussed hereinafter pertains to a possible interview by an agent at Crosley's and to the fact that an interview was conducted and then furnished to Congressman Gerald Ford of Michigan."

An indignant Earl Blaik denied to us that he had ever held any such discussion with Ford. "I don't think there is anything to all that," he snorted. "I did not talk to Ford. I have no memory of this at all."

However, Ford acknowledged receiving a number of calls from Blaik on the VRC-12 contract. As Ford recalled it, AVCO had developed the radios for the Army, therefore had felt entitled to the production contracts without bidding.

Ex-Congressman Wilson, reached at his home in Bedford, Ind., said that AVCO had been paid by the Army to develop the radios, then had received the first two multi-million-dollar contracts without competition. The FBI had found some "improprieties," said Wilson, but nothing serious enough to warrant prosecution.

He added that the Army asked for bids on the third contract, and Magnavox of Fort Wayne, Ind., took the contract away from AVCO with a bid that was 49 per cent lower than AVCO's price.

ed harder than anyone else, X'd off the night as a loss as soon as he saw Marcy Marilyn. The drinks went around and around. The dining room table was laden with potato salad, corned beef, roast beef, cheese, saltines, olives, pearl onions, a gleaming pot of coffee that sounded like a frog under water, and the best silver and folded napkins. Perce noticed that Marcy Marilyn was now under the Christmas tree playing with his children's dolls and he reserved a chilly glance for Grace every time she sniffed.

Johnny said no to a drink a bit too loud. Everybody knew that he had been a bent boozier. Now, in the middle years, he had given up drinking and smoking and he smiled sadly at the others and shook his head. "Gather ye rosebuds while ye may," he said untidily. "The day of reckoning is coming."

He had been of relating, eight months, 12 days and two hours. The slob watched roll down the ski slide of his vest and he rubbed the mayonnaise in with his napkin. "Really," he said as Perce ran for a wet cloth, "it's nothing." It was nothing. The slob could not detect the stains from those of red beets, Worcestershire sauce and a green mint frappe.

Perce's slattern wife kept running to the kitchen and back again. There was nothing to do, but any woman with an apron must keep running. An ornament fell off the tree and Marcy Marilyn cried and said it scared her. Johnny lifted the kid on his lap and she cried harder. Her father said he would give her something to cry for.

Cynthia picked a lit cigarette off the rug and her watch dropped off. Perce's wife said it was nothing and looked a desperate glance at her husband. In the morning, the guests phoned Perce and his slattern wife and said it was the best holiday party in years. The very best. "Next year my house," they all said. Cynthia phoned and said to please not tell her husband, but look around the house for her watch. She distinctly remembered having it when she went to the bath-

SYLVIA PORTER

SS Unfair To Me

As of Jan. 1, I'll be paying the new maximum Social Security tax of $343.20. This is not a shock to me. For the 30 years of my entire working life, since 1937, I have always been in an earning bracket where I have paid the maximum annual Social Security tax to finance pension benefits going to others.

Yet, if I ever retire, I will be eligible to receive only a few more dollars each month in retirement benefits than my neighbor who has never held a paying job in her life and who has never contributed 1 cent to the Social Security system. Despite the fact that my neighbor has never worked for pay and never contributed, she will be automatically eligible for a wife's benefits when her husband retires. Solely because she exists as a wife, she will get an amount equal to about one-half her husband's benefits.

If I stay alive, I also will be automatically entitled to a wife's benefit when my husband retires—BUT I WON'T GET IT if I claim any benefits on the basis of the thousands of dollars in Social Security taxes I have contributed on my own.

If you are among America's 15,200,000 working wives, the story is the same for you. The only return in future Social Security retirement benefits you'll get from the taxes you are now paying will be the difference between the benefits you could expect as a dependent wife and the amount of your own benefit, based on your own contributions to the system.

Over a working lifetime, your "wasted" contributions easily can amount to thousands of dollars.

Of course, I know the explanation for this obvious inequity. It is simply that when the original Social Security law was written back in the 1930s, the vast majority of wives were non-working wives and totally dependent on their husbands' earnings—and thus, also retirement benefits—for economic survival. The basic principle was, and it remains: that the husband is the key breadwinner of the family. The "supplement" for his non-working wife was put into the law to keep millions of retired married couples off the welfare rolls. The working wife was ignored because she just wasn't conspicuous enough.

But 1967 is not 1937! The working wife now represents 57 per cent of the female labor force. The married woman now outnumbers her single sisters in the work force by 2 1/2 to 1. The wife who works is contributing billions of dollars in Social Security taxes to finance the benefits of someone else. But she must forfeit one of her roles when benefits come.

What could be acceptable solutions? For instance, I asked the Social Security Administration in Washington, "what about paying a working wife her own full Social Security retirement benefit apart from her husband's benefit with its automatic share for his wife?"

The answer was: "the cost of this would be equal to the cost of a 10 per cent across-the-board benefit increase for all beneficiaries. It would boost the tax burden on all workers. Among those paying higher Social Security taxes would be the single working woman who would receive no increase in benefits."

To my question "what about requiring the married man with a non-working wife to pay higher Social Security taxes?", the answer was: "this would be an accounting nightmare because of the possibilities of divorce, death of the wife before her husband retires or a decision by the wife to get a job."

To my question "aren't there any compromises under consideration at all?" I did get this answer:

"Yes, one compromise could be a provision to pay the working wife her full Social Security benefits plus a percentage of what she could receive in wife's benefits."

That would represent recognition of the inequity and mark some effort to correct it.

Admission of the inequity must come first—and having written this initial report to spur recognition, I herewith serve notice that if I shut up for a while, my silence will be only temporary.

There must come a time when we will reduce—if not wipe out—the Social Security law's unfair treatment of us, the nation's working wives.

FOR HOLIDAY DROP-INS

Holiday drop-ins are no problem for the homemaker who takes advantage of today's prepared foods and has on hand a good supply of fixin's for snacks and drinks.

'Round the Punch Bowl

Near the top of the international "They'll do it every time" list are the relatives, friends and neighbors who consider the holiday season a perfect time to "drop in". Even when they call first to ask if it's convenient for you to receive them, these unexpected guests have caused their share of crises over the years.

Plan on such visits, though, and you'll find them a wonderful part of the warmth of the holidays. The "instant punch bowl" and the "ever-ready dips and snacks" are the keystones of this kind of planning.

In the snack department, 'tis the season to double and triple your stock. Peanuts, pretzels, chips, olives, canned shrimp and smoked oysters are among the staples. For extra holiday zing without additional trouble, the new Dip 'N Snak products in flavors like French onion, blue-cheese, bacon horseradish and chives are marvelous. Made on a sour cream base, they are "dippable" the minute they come out of the refrigerator. When you have a little notice, you can also use them as the base for easy personalized specialties of the house.

EVER-READY DIP
2 containers bacon horseradish prepared dip
6 strips crisp bacon
1/4 cup chopped Bermuda onion
Dash tabasco
Broil six strips of bacon until crisp and drain all excess

Tired of Turkey?

When the crowd at your house has had enough turkey or you want a particularly festive, different and easy-to-make main dish for an informal supper or buffet, try HAMBURGER MUSHROOM PIE. You will find this hearty, easy-to-serve dish ideal for an after-skating or skiing get-together; also, this will be good reserve ammunition for those who stay after the cocktail or egg-nog party!

It is inexpensive, so will not ruin the already over-strained Holiday budget, and can be made in advance and baked at the last minute. Of course, the recipe can be easily doubled or tripled. Furthermore, Hamburger Mushroom Pie need not be served only on special Holidays. It is good family fare anytime—particularly for families with children!

Ingredients:
1 cup biscuit mix
1 3/4 cup light cream
1 - 3 or 4oz. can BUTTON MUSHROOMS, drained
1 pound ground beef
1 medium onion, chopped
1 teaspoon salt

New Year's Day Brunch

Brunch on New Year's Day may be served just after midnight or just after noon. Either time calls for a fairly hearty meal that can be served with a minimum of time spent in the kitchen.

Begin by removing the cover from a package of frozen Turkey Gravy on Turkey Slices and slipping into a 450 degree oven. Set the timer for 45 minutes. Place muffins or rolls in the oven to heat with the turkey during the last 15 minutes.

Prepare a fruit salad by combining 2 cups of diced unpared red apples, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 1 tablespoon sugar, 1 cup thinly sliced celery with 1/2 cup dairy sour cream. Spoon onto lettuce leaves and top each salad with a spoonful of drained cranberry relish.

While the turkey and gravy heats, serve the guests hot tomato soup in punch cups or mugs topped with a bit of butter and sprinkled with dill weed.

The turkey and gravy may be left in the foil pan and placed on a hot tray or over a warmer for serving. Each guest may spoon turkey and gravy over fat on paper towels. Crumble. Chop onion finely. With a fork, thoroughly blend half the bacon, the onion and a dash of tabasco with the prepared dip. Spoon into serving dish. Sprinkle remaining crumbled bacon on top and serve with chips for dipping.

INSTANT EGG NOG PUNCH
1 quart prepared egg nog
1/2 cup brandy
1/2 cup light rum
2 egg whites (optional)
nutmeg
Pour prepared egg nog into a holiday-worthy punch bowl. Add brandy and rum. Stir until thoroughly blended. For thicker egg nog, beat egg whites until peaks form when beater is raised. Fold into punch. Sprinkle with nutmeg and serve.

APPLE-BERRY PUNCH
2 cups apple juice
1 package (3 ounces) raspberry flavored gelatin
2 red-skinned tart apples
Whole cloves
1 quart cranberry juice
2 quarts 7-Up (64 ounces total), chilled
Heat apple juice to boiling. Add to raspberry gelatin; stir to dissolve. Stud apples with cloves; place in bowl with warm gelatin mixture; allow to stand about 10 minutes. Add cranberry juice. Chill thoroughly. Just before serving, add carbonated beverage. Makes about 3 1/2 quarts or 28 (4-ounce) servings.

Ingredients:
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
2 tablespoons biscuit mix
3 eggs
8 ounces creamed cottage cheese
Add the cream to the cup of biscuit mix. Stir with a fork until blended. Form into a ball and knead about 10 times on a lightly floured board. Roll dough into a circle to fit a 9-inch pie plate. Ease into pie plate. Trim dough 1/2 inch beyond edge. Fold the overhang under and crimp edges with your fingers or fork to make a neat rim.

Chop approximately half the mushrooms and saute with the beef and onions until the meat is browned. Add seasonings and remaining biscuit mix. Spread in pastry-lined pie plate. Beat eggs lightly, add cottage cheese and blend together. Pour over meat mixture. Garnish with remaining mushrooms. Bake 30 minutes in 375 degree F. oven. Cut in wedges. Makes 6 servings.

SOMETHING DIFFERENT

Planning a brunch for the holidays? Oven-Baked Pancakes with Sausage are not only different but decidedly delicious, and so easy to prepare and serve!

Hearty Holiday Brunch

So often during the week between Christmas and New Year's and over the long New Year's weekend it is convenient to have only two meals, a brunch mid-morning and dinner late in the day.

Brunch is really the essential parts of breakfast and lunch put together. The meal can be hearty and mighty good to eat without being time consuming to prepare.

Here are some good examples:
MENU No. 1: Tomato Juice, Smoked Ham and Orange Marmalade Omelet, Cinnamon Toast, Beverage.

MENU No. 2: Orange Juice, Smoked Turkey Ala Cheese on Toast, Buttered Green Beans or Asparagus, Beverage.

MENU No. 3: Baked Apple or Applesauce, Oven-Baked Pancakes with Sausage, Butter or Margarine, Creamed Peas, Beverage.

MENU No. 4: Chilled Citrus Fruit sections, Breakfast Beefsteaks, Hashed Brown Potatoes, Scrambled Eggs, Toast, Beverage.

SMOKED HAM AND ORANGE MARMALADE OMELET
Yield: 2 servings
1 package Swift's Premium Wafer Sliced Smoked Ham
2 tablespoons butter
3 eggs
2 tablespoons milk
1/4 teaspoon salt
2 to 3 tablespoons orange marmalade
1/2 stick (1/4 cup) butter, melted
1 tablespoon lemon juice
Powdered sugar

Add butter to skillet and place over medium heat until bubbly. Combine eggs, milk and salt. Stir until well mixed. Pour into small skillet and cook over medium heat until egg is slightly set and some liquid remains on the surface. Tilt the pan, lift edges of egg opposite handle with spatula. This allows uncooked egg to run under the edge of cooked mixture. Cover with lid for about 1/2 minute to allow surface to become creamy. Spread orange marmalade over surface of omelet. Tilt pan and roll omelet onto hot platter. Surround with:

Swift's Premium Wafer Sliced Smoked Ham. Serve with warm melted butter seasoned with lemon and sprinkle with powdered sugar.

SMOKED TURKEY ALA CHEESE ON TOAST
Yield: 3 to 4 servings
1 package Swift's Premium Wafer Sliced Smoked Turkey
1 1/4 cups cheese sauce (or 1 package cheese mix and milk)
1/4 cup sliced pitted ripe olives.
Buttered toast.

Pull smoked turkey into pieces and combine with hot cheese sauce and olives. Serve over toast.

OVEN-BAKED PANCAKES WITH SAUSAGE
Bake in two 8-inch round cake pans and cut into 10 servings
2 packages (1/2 pound each) Swift's Premium Brown 'n Serve Sausage Links
2 eggs
1 cup milk
1 1/4 cups sifted flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
1 tablespoon sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons melted shortening

Beat the eggs with rotary beater until light and fluffy. Combine with the milk. Sift together the flour, baking powder, sugar, and salt. Add the dry ingredients and shortening to the milk mixture. Beat until batter is smooth. Pour into baking pans rubbed with shortening. Arrange sausage links on the batter, spoke fashion. Bake in a very hot oven (450 F) for 15 minutes. Cut each pan into five wedges and serve hot with butter and syrup.

BREAKFAST BEEF STEAKS
Choose Swift's Premium Pro Ten Beef Steaks cut 1/4 to 1/2 inch thick for panbroiling. Popular steaks for brunch are the Penhouse, Key Strip, or Savory Broil Steaks. In a skillet rub the steaks lightly with shortening, broil the steaks, turning to brown on each side, a total of 5 to 6 minutes. Steaks are at their juicy best when still slightly pink inside. Serve with juices from the pan and hash browned potatoes.

Midnight Spread

After the last strains of Auld Lang Syne, on comes the food to welcome in the New Year. The canny hostess serves a buffet that lets her stay with the party while the stove does the cooking!

She pops a casserole in the oven half an hour before midnight. The main table decoration is a spectacular clock-faced cake that reminds the guests it's time to make good resolutions.

Here's the menu: Tossed Green Salad with Artichokes and Pimiento, Shrimparoni, Italian bread, Clock-at-Midnight Cake, and hot grog.

SHRIMPARONI
4 cans (15 ounces each) macaroni with cheese sauce
2 cups diced cooked shrimp (2 5-ounce cans)
2 cups minced celery
2 tablespoons lemon juice
Dash pepper

1/2 cup buttered bread crumbs
In 3-quart casserole, combine all ingredients except crumbs. Sprinkle crumbs over top. Bake at 400 degrees for 30 minutes, 8 servings.

CLOCK-AT-MIDNIGHT CAKE
Bake a spice cake mix in two 9-inch layer cake pans. Cool. Prepare fluffy white frosting mix following package directions substituting hot cranberry juice for water. Frost cake. Cut licorice strings into short lengths and arrange on top of cake in Roman numerals to resemble the face of a clock. Cut 2 hands to point at midnight.

HOT GROG
In saucepan, combine 1 quart cider, 2/3 cup brown sugar, 6 whole cloves, and 4 sticks cinnamon. Heat; simmer 5 minutes; strain. Add rum to taste if desired. Serve hot. 10 to 12 servings.

Protector's Diary

Most of us have, I guess, wondered from time to time how game protectors and fish wardens manage to put in their working days. It doesn't seem they would have too much work to do and their jobs could be a pleasant excuse for spending a lot of time in the great outdoors.

At least that is the way I must have been thinking. For when I recently came across the field-books of R. M. Freeborough, who served as game protector in the Youngsville area back in the early 30's, I was surprised to learn that here was one fellow who had anything but a soft snap of it in performing his duties.

Day in and day out the accounts in the diary tell of long tramps through the woods searching for reported violators and long nights spent on backcountry roads watching for "spotlighters" and poachers. For Freeborough's days were during the Great Depression and a lot of illegal hunting was done by a lot of destitute people who needed the game for food.

A typical day went something like this: "October 20, 1932. Left home at 8 o'clock. Drove to Garland, Torpedo and Grand Valley. Talked to Charles Haines. Then up on hill and back by the way of Hemlock, Sutton Hill, Ross Hill and Cole Hill. Talked to several men. Got report that deer were being killed at night on Sutton Hill and Holden Hill. Charles C. reported killing 'coon on highway. Heard no shooting. Home at 4:45 p.m.

"Got report that there was a deer killed at McKinney's. Went and got it. It was a small buck. It had been killed on the highway near Tidioute. Dressed out by William Carpenter of Forest County. Home again at 5:30 p.m.

"Charles Britton came for me at 8 p.m., and we started for Tidioute. Picked up R.C. Bailey. Arrived at Tidioute at 8:30 p.m. Met Dave Storor and five other men. Went up on hill in Limestone Township to look for spotlighters. Saw them using lights, but heard no shooting. Home at 1 a.m. Drove 44 miles. Walked 4 miles. Lunch 50 cents.

That was a typical day in Freeborough's book. A very untypical day was October 25. This day started, according to the diary, at 7 p.m. the evening of October 24 right after Freeborough, who had only returned home at 6:15 p.m., had eaten his supper. He had already worked a total of 8 hours, driven 35 miles, and walked 5 miles.

Describing this untypical day, the diary says, "Left home at 7 p.m. with R. P. Schmidt. Went to Gillis Corners on Cobham Hill. Worked there all night checking cars. Very little travel on this road due to rainy weather.

"Left there at 6 a.m. and went to Tidioute to get breakfast at Schmidt's home. Left there at 8 a.m. and went to Watson Township and worked there all morning. Heard four or five shots away off in Camp Run section but could find no one.

"To Yeager's filling station for lunch. Left there at 1 p.m. up over Kelley Hill in Limestone Township and worked that section to Queens and down to Forest County line. Met W. J. Carpenter who wanted us to go to Beaver Valley with him. He left his car and we drove to where he wanted to go.

"Stopped along road when we heard shooting further up the hill. Drove further up the road, then Carpenter and I dropped off and walked up over hill. Schmidt went on and parked his car near a camp, then met us on the ridge. We patrolled that section until dark.

"When we got back to the car two men were waiting for us. They were very abusive. They called Carpenter all kinds of names and wanted to fight him. Finally ordered us off the land and told us to stay off. They would probably have beat Carpenter up if he had been alone. Back to Queens and on to Tidioute. Home at 7 p.m. Drove (Schmidt) 71 miles, walked 6 miles, meals $1."

If Freeborough's diary proves anything at all it is the fact that our game protectors and fish wardens certainly earn their money. That while they may spend a lot of their time in the great outdoors, it isn't the picnic some think it could be. They spend some long hard hours on routine work that would drive an ordinary man off his rocker. And there isn't an hour of the day or night they can actually call their own.

There's a chance, too, that things may be even tougher now than they were in Freeborough's day. More hunters in the woods, more deer being killed by cars, longer fishing seasons, heavier stocking programs—all add up to extra work. So if you're looking for a soft snap that will allow you to spend most of your working hours outdoors don't place an application with the fish and game commissions. You'll find the work easier and the hours better if you go to chopping cordwood.

Over the past 22 years the number of licensed hunters in the U.S. increased by nearly 80 per cent—almost twice the 43 per cent growth in population during the same period.

ONE OF 20 UNBEATENS

Dragon 145-pounder Mike Maines pictured on the way to a victory over Erie East's Bill Trutt in a match earlier this month, is one of 20 undefeated grapplers who will be competing in the Third Annual WAHS Holiday Wrestling Tournament tomorrow and Friday nights. Pairings for the opening round show six weight classes with at least two unbeaten wrestlers. See story below. (Photo by Mahan)

First Round Holiday Mat
Tourney Pairings Listed

Local wrestling fans may be seeing several possible state champions in action tomorrow night when the Dragons host the Third Annual WAHS Holiday Wrestling Tournament in the WAHS gym.

The four teams in the tourney, Curwensville, Jamestown, N.Y., Kittanning and Warren, all have excellent early season records and can boast of many outstanding individual grapplers.

The tourney is so deep in mat talent that no less than six of the 12 weight classes will feature at least two undefeated wrestlers, one—the 133-pound class—will send all four grapplers to the mats with perfect records and the 180-pound division has three unbeaten seniors entered.

The matchups start right at 9:30-pounds tomorrow night when Tom Duckett of Jamestown and Chester Stockhill of Kittanning, both with 4-0 marks, meet in the first round. Duckett was 11-1 last season and took an individual championship at the Girard tourney earlier this month.

Pitted against Warren's Bob Seagist, 2-1, will be John Weisgarber of Curwensville, an 88-pound district champion last season with a 14-4 record.

At 103, Jamestown's Mike Young, at 3-0, will face Mark Williams of the Dragons, 2-1, in the opening round.

The 112-pound class features Warren's Dane Sorensen, 2-0-1 and the 103-pound Section IV title last season, and Ray Hodnett, 3-0, of Jamestown, although they're not paired up in the preliminaries.

Steve Jones 2-1, will wrestle at 120 for the Dragons, the only weight class without an unbeaten grappler.

Mathis, undefeated in 23 pro fights, won his 10th straight knockout victory. In the first fight in Sweden Nov. 18 at the Johanneshov Sports Hall in Stockholm, he stopped Roberto Davila of Peru in the seventh round.

The American hit his opponent with two right-left combos and a heavy right hand.

Mathis holds two victories over Frazier, who has never beaten him.

The big Negro weighed 295 as an amateur but has tapered down since turning pro.

Warren's Doug Sorensen shows the best record at 127, 3-0.

Something has to give at 133, where three of the competing wrestlers must suffer their first defeat of the season before the tourney is over.

Jim Mead of Warren is 3-0 and draws Jamestown's Ed Morales, unbeaten in dual competition, in his first match. The other preliminary pits Kittanning's Mike Shaffer, 4-0, against Gib Bressler, 3-0-1, of Curwensville.

At 158, Warren's Steve Kaiser, back on the mats after missing the Erie Strong Vincent match because of a foot injury, runs into John Carroll of Kittanning, who is 4-0, Kaiser is 1-1.

Undefeated Mike Maines represents the Dragons at 145, a class that also includes Kittanning's Larry Heckman, a runner-up in last year's tourney.

If Dragon 154-pounder Ray Lowe whips unbeaten Randy Bloomquist of Jamestown, with all three of his wins by pins, in the first round, chances are he'll meet Curwensville's John Appelton, 4-0, in the finals.

Kittanning's Dan Roofner, 4-0 and a regional finalist with a 14-0 mark last season, ties up with Chris Lodo of Curwensville, also 4-0, in a 165-pound preliminary. Bob Thompson will wrestle for Warren.

The four 180-pounders have 13 wins, one loss and one tie between them.

Terry Claypool of Kittanning, a semi-finalist in last season's PIAA State Tournament, is the class of the division with a 4-0 mark and meets Jamestown's Tom Roselle, who sports an identical record this season.

Only 3,500 fans watched the fight in the Froelundaborg Sports Hall, which has a capacity of 11,000.

DeBruyn has a record of 20 victories, four defeats and two draws, with 13 victories on knockouts. This was his first defeat in 17 fights since 1963, and his first ever against a Negro since he turned professional in 1961.

Mathis, an orphan reared by two sign painters and a sign painter himself, won the U.S. Olympic trials in 1964, beating Joe Frazier.

Later, Mathis hurt his hand and Frazier, also unbeaten and a heavyweight contender, replaced him on the U.S. team at Tokyo. Frazier, 28, won the heavyweight gold medal.

Mathis holds two victories over Frazier, who has never beaten him.

The big Negro weighed 295 as an amateur but has tapered down since turning pro.

Maris, Lonberg Baseball Careers
Endangered by Illness, Accident

Cards' Star
Afflicted
With Palsy

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The baseball future of Roger Maris is in doubt following disclosure Tuesday that the St. Louis Cardinal right fielder has Bell's palsy.

A medical authority said the ailment, which affects the face, is not serious. He said it is a temporary paralysis of the facial muscles and could temporarily affect the vision. The right side of Maris' face is affected.

Maris commented that all he can do now is wait.

"If it hangs on I don't think I'll be able to play next year," he said, "but spring training is a long way off and we'll just have to wait and see."

The news of the 33-year-old's illness came as a surprise to the Cardinals' management. Assistant General Manager Jim Toomey said Maris had informed the club a few weeks ago he would enter a hospital for removal of polyps from his throat. Maris made no reference to Bell's palsy at that time, Toomey added.

Maris hit .385 in the Cardinals' seven-game victory over the Boston Red Sox in the 1967 World Series. He drove in seven runs during the series, more than any other player. Maris batted .261 during the regular season.

with the New York Yankees for Charlie Smith. The former home run king, who belted a record 61 in 1961, said he couldn't blink his right eye and the right side of his face was numb. He said there is a little pain in the eye and the side of his face sags slightly.

"Nothing like this has ever bothered me before," Maris said. "The doctors can't tell me much except that most people get it by sleeping in a draft or something similar that would shock the nerves in the face."

Houston Confident
About Taking Title

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Wally Lemm said Tuesday his Houston Oilers know they can defeat the Oakland Raiders in Sunday's American Football League championship game.

Lemm said motion pictures of Houston's 19-7 loss to Oakland Dec. 10 have convinced the Oilers they can win.

"Our players know we beat ourselves in the second half that day," Lemm told an Oiler luncheon.

"Errors cost us that ball game. If we can avoid doing that again we can win. We have no reason to fear Oakland but every reason to respect their fine club."

Houston and Oakland met only once in the regular season. The Oilers held a 7-0 halftime lead but bowed to the Western Division champions in the second half after George Blanda had put the Raiders in front with four field goals.

Blanda is the former Houston quarterback who led the Oilers to AFL championships in 1960 and 1961 and an Eastern Division crown in 1962.

Lemm left no doubt that part of his strategy Sunday will be to keep Blanda out of field goal range.

"We've been pretty successful on defense but have given up a lot of yardage in the middle of the field," Lemm said. "That's what hurt us against Oakland. If we can play ball control more, we can minimize Blanda's effectiveness. So much of this game will depend on how we can move the ball."

Lemm had high praise for Pete Beathard, the quarterback the Oilers obtained from Kansas City after the season was well under way.

Houston was 2-2 when Beathard arrived and Saturday's 41-10 victory over Miami clinched the Eastern Division title at 9-4-1.

"Beathard has been throwing the ball very well but we know we will have to throw and receive better against Oakland," Lemm said.

Writers at the luncheon gave Lemm and Don Klosterman, the general manager, standing ovations for taking the Oilers from last year's cellar position to the top spot in the Eastern Division.

Eleven Players Added to AFL
All-Star Squad

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—Buffalo coach Joe Collier announced Tuesday the selection of 11 additional players for the East team in the American Football League All-Star game Jan. 21.

Offensive players named by Collier included flanker Jack Clancy, Miami; tackle Steve Barber, Buffalo; guard Winston Hill, New York; quarterback Bob Griese, Miami; halfback Woody Campbell, Houston; fullback Hoyle Granger, Houston; and kicker Mike Mercer, Buffalo.

Defensive players included end Pat Holmes, Houston; tackle Houston Antwine, Boston; linebacker John Bramlett, Miami; and halfback Tom Janik, Buffalo.

Other members of the East team, which features fullback Jim Nance of Boston, the league-leading runner, and quarterback Joe Namath of New York, were announced last week.

Hurler Hurt Skiing,
Faces Knee Surgery

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP)—Jim Lonborg, ace pitcher of the American League champion Boston Red Sox, faces surgery Wednesday to repair a knee ligament torn in a skiing accident.

The mishap occurred on a ski slope near Lake Tahoe, Nev., Saturday.

It was a sobering jolt to the usually happy-go-lucky 24-year-old Lonborg, whose brilliant pitching helped provide Boston fans with their first baseball pennant in 21 years.

The 6-foot-5, 195-pound right-hander won the Cy Young award as the American League's outstanding pitcher. He won 22 regular games and then added two victories in the World Series before yielding to Bob Gibson of the St. Louis Cardinals in the seventh and deciding game. Lonborg had nine losses during the regular season.

Dr. Thomas Tierney, team physician, said he and Dr. John McGillicuddy, noted orthopedic surgeon, would perform the operation in Santa Maria Hospital, not far from Boston's Fenway Park where Lonborg thrilled Red Sox fans last summer. McGillicuddy said the injury probably would have little effect, if any, on Lonborg's pitching. He said the only problem could be with his follow through.

"X-rays showed no bone chips," Tierney said. "When fibers are torn such as this, you repair it with sutures stitches."

The doctor said Lonborg would be in a cast for six weeks. Then he is to begin special exercises.

Lonborg and the physicians met with newsmen in the hospital X-ray room. The young pitcher, head down, was wheeled in and out on a stretcher.

"I'm a little embarrassed about this," he said.

Lonborg said he was skiing with a male companion, who he declined to identify. The pitcher said he was making a turn when his skis "caught an edge," causing him to pitch forward with his feet turned in under him in pigeon-doe fashion.

Lonborg said he got up and skied back to a base camp where they had refreshments before returning to his mother's home in San Luis Obispo, Calif. He said his leg was sore and it throbbed, but there was no swelling.

On Sunday, Lonborg went to a doctor. Later, he called Tierney who made arrangements for the pitcher to fly to Boston.

Whether he would ski again, Lonborg said "I don't know. I'll have to think that over."

Asked if he would do the special exercises, he replied: "I've got enough at stake to want to do it." Lonborg recently signed his 1968 contract for an estimated $50,000.

Lonborg asked that no pictures be taken but a photographer ignored the request and caught several shots of the pitcher as he was being wheeled out.

The handsome bachelor had taken up skiing seriously as a conditioning program. He pitched in winter ball last year.

Bengals Swap Picks
To Miami for Stofa

CINCINNATI (AP)—The new Cincinnati Bengals of the American Football League began the job of building for their 1968 debut by acquiring quarterback John Stofa Tuesday from the Miami Dolphins.

The Bengals paid dearly, giving up their first and second round bonus selections in the college draft, but all the principals appeared happy with the deal.

"It's a move I wanted to make," said Paul Brown, president of the Cincinnati club. "Stofa is young, experienced and a leader."

Joe Robbie, general manager of the Dolphins, said the trade had advantages for Miami, Cincinnati and Stofa.

"This gives us the best draft opportunities of any AFL club," Robbie said. "It gives Stofa the opportunity he deserves to become a first string quarterback."

Stofa, 25, a 6-3, 210-pound graduate of Buffalo University, started the final game for Miami last year but missed action this season because of a broken leg.

His place at the Miami signal-calling slot was taken over by Bob Griese, the flashy rookie from Purdue who came on strong at the end of the campaign, guiding the Dolphins to four victories.

Stofa won the Miami quarterbacking job in the exhibition season but broke an ankle four minutes after the start of the opening league game with Denver.

Griese took over. Although he missed two games because of a shoulder injury, the Purdue ace passed for 2,005 yards and 15 touchdowns and was the league's top running quarterback with 157 yards.

"I would not be fair to Stofa or Griese to keep both on the same team," Robbie said. "Griese has established himself as our No. 1 quarterback."

Stofa spent 2½ years in the minor leagues and was cut by Miami and Pittsburgh of the National League before he got the call from Miami after Rick Norton broke his jaw. He joined the Dolphins midway of the 1966 season, sat out several games and finally started the last game of the campaign against Houston. He threw four touchdown passes.

Robbie said he was a strong believer in building a team from high draft choices.

"We have never traded away our top draft choice," Robbie added. "Denver had to give up its first round pick to get Steve Tensi. New Orleans traded its first choice to Green Bay for Jim Taylor."

Police said James Callimore and Ronald Paschall made a citizen's arrest after Mrs. Callimore saw a man take the cycle from the Morton garage.

Caught Rustlin'
Cowboy's Cycle

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Neighbors of Dallas Cowboys quarterback Craig Morton intercepted a would-be thief early Tuesday before the less than shifty man could dash away with Morton's motorcycle.

Police said James Callimore and Ronald Paschall made a citizen's arrest after Mrs. Callimore saw a man take the cycle from the Morton garage.

Simpson and Trojan Speed Impress Pont

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — John Pont, the coach of Indiana's Hoosier football team, was asked what impressed him most about his opponent in the Rose Bowl New Year's Day, Southern California's Trojans. "I would say at least two things," he replied. "One is O.J. Simpson. He is a tremendous football player."

"O.J. is what I call a 'game breaker.' In one play he can turn a game completely around. The other thing about this USC team is its over-all movement. The Trojans are big and mobile. You seldom see just one man tackling a runner. Usually there are three or four on him."

Simpson, All-America halfback, led the nation's colleges in rushing with a total of 1,415 yards in 266 carries in the regular 10-game season. He also scored 11 touchdowns, tying West Texas State's Eugene Morris for the lead in this category.

Simpson, incidentally, took time out from the Trojans' busy schedule to come to Pasadena from his Los Angeles campus to chat with Indiana football writers and broadcasters.

To a man, the Hoosier interviewers were impressed with his friendly deportment, modesty and articulate manner of speaking.

And O.J. had a few things to say about this Indiana team which is here for the first time to represent the Big Ten in the Rose Bowl.

"I've looked at some films of the Purdue game and a couple of other games and I was really impressed by the Indiana defense."

"You can be sure we are not taking them lightly," continued O.J., who added he discounted any thought that the Hoosiers

Frisco Ends Celtics' Win Streak

BOSTON (AP) — Jeff Mullins and Rudy LaRusso out loose with a sudden devastating scoring blitz midway in the third period as the San Francisco Warriors snapped the Boston Celtics' seven-game winning streak with a 117-104 National Basketball Association victory Tuesday night.

San Francisco was trailing 63-59 and had failed to score for almost three full minutes at the start of the third period when Mullins threw in five quick field goals and LaRusso added four, to carry the Warriors to a 78-71 lead which they never relinquished.

Mullins led the Warriors with 32 points and LaRusso added 27. John Havlicek led Boston with 32.

The victory before a sell-out crowd of 13,909 was the first for the Warriors in almost four years at Boston Garden where they had lost 13 games in a row since Jan. 29, 1964.

Lakers Hold On To Shade Bulls

CHICAGO (AP) — The Los Angeles Lakers blew an 11-point lead in the final quarter Tuesday night but came back in the last 31 seconds to edge the Chicago Bulls 104-101 in a National Basketball Association game.

The Lakers' playing without regulars Elgin Baylor, who remained in his hotel room with flu, and Jerry West, who suffered a back ailment in a game Christmas night, grabbed a 92-81 lead early in the last period. The Lakers were paced by Archie Clark with 24 points.

were lucky to win as they did.

"You can't win a streak of close ones with luck."

Pont, an easy man to talk to, agreed there was some parallel in the medium size of his team and the UCLA Bruin pack which bedeviled and beat a big Michigan State team in the Rose Bowl in the 1966 contest, 14-12.

Just as a reminder, the Bruins had a young sophomore in the quarterback saddle that day, name of Gary Beban. Indiana also has a sophomore quarterback, name of Harry Gonso.

Drills Open For East, West Teams

PALO ALTO, Calif. (AP) — Pro scouts lined the rails Tuesday as both squads held rugged workouts in preparation for the East-West game Saturday at Candlestick Park in San Francisco.

Here at Stanford a dozen watched the West team go through its practice. At nearby Santa Clara at least that many oled the East squad's muscle. The East-watchers left without comment, but here the consensus was that the West's starting backfield of Gary Beban of UCLA, Haven Moses of San Diego State, Warren McVeay of Houston and Lee White of Weber State all will be snapped up in the first draft scheduled for January 30.

East Coach Ara Parseghian of Notre Dame said he was impressed with the running of Larry Csonka, 235-pound Syracuse fullback, and of Benny Barnato of South Carolina. The offensive blocking of Dick Himes of Ohio State and Wayne Mass of Clemson also drew his approval.

On defense, Parseghian singled out Randall Edmunds of Georgia Tech and Lance Olsen of Purdue.

In the West workout the standouts in defense were the two Smiths (no relation), Jim of Oregon and Bob of California, who are the defensive backstops.

Each intercepted a pass, one from Gary Beban and another from Denny Holman of San Jose State.

Cal's Ray Willsey, coaching the defensive backfield, said his team was working as if it had been together a long time. It includes Harry Cheatwood of Oklahoma State and Neal Starkey of the Air Force Academy.

West Head Coach Ben Martin of the Air Force said his entire offensive repertoire had been installed and from here on the emphasis will be on polishing off the rough edges.

Mullins led the Warriors with 32 points and LaRusso added 27. John Havlicek led Boston with 32.

76ers, Sonics Take Twinbill Victories

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Chet Walker scored eight of Philadelphia's last 10 points Tuesday night to lead the 76ers to a 126-121 victory over Cincinnati in the nightcap of a National Basketball Association doubleheader at the Spectrum.

Six clutch free throws by Walt Hazzard in the last seconds enabled Seattle to edge New York 137-135 before 15,003 fans in the opener.

Philadelphia's victory moved the 76ers a half game ahead of Boston in the NBA race. However the Celtics, who lost to San Francisco Tuesday night, still retain first place in the Eastern Division by eight percentage points.

Walker scored five straight points after Cincinnati had cut a 15-point deficit to 119-117 with 2:34 remaining. Walker then hit a jumper with 2:14 left and made a three-point play with 1:39 left to clinch the victory.

The 76ers had built a 15-point edge at 109-94 with 9:10 left before Oscar Robertson sparked Cincinnati's futile comeback. Walker scored 28 and Hal Greer 26 to lead the Philadelphia attack that also saw Walt Chamberlain and Billy Cunningham add 20 apiece.

COLUMBIA, BC, ST. JOHN'S ADVANCE

Louisville Whips LaSalle In Holiday Cage Festival

NEW YORK (AP) — Louisville combined the dynamic rebounding of All-American Wes Unseld with the hot second-half shooting of Butch Beard and Mary Selvy for a 94-71 triumph over LaSalle Tuesday night in the concluding game of the opening round of the Holiday Basketball Festival.

The Cardinals, advanced with Columbia, Boston College and St. John's, N.Y., into Thursday night's semifinals at Madison Square Garden.

Columbia sophomore Jim McMillian scored 40 points as the Lions qualified to meet Louisville by trouncing West Virginia 98-71 in the opener of the evening doubleheader.

St. John's defeated Syracuse 60-55 and 10th-ranked Boston College crushed Penn State 87-58 in an afternoon twinbill.

In the final game of the day, Unseld, Louisville's 6-foot-8, 250-pound giant, collared 20 rebounds and scored 21 points while Beard dropped in 23 points and Selvy, younger brother of former Furman great Frank Selvy, added 19.

Besides leading the scoring, Beard virtually shut off LaSalle's Bernie Williams in the second half, limiting the swift backcourt man to three baskets after he had tossed in 18 first-half points.

Louisville, 4-3, led 39-36 at the half but fell behind 44-43 shortly after intermission. Beard then hit a jump shot, Unseld dropped in a free throw and Selvy hit another jumper, sending the Cardinals ahead to stay. Selvy threw in 16 points and Beard 14 in the second half.

McMillian, the Lions' touted 6-foot-5 newcomer, scored 18 points in leading Columbia to a 42-28 halftime margin and continued his torrid shooting as the tall Ivy Leaguers pulled away after intermission.

He finished with a gaudy 61 per cent from the floor on 14 of 23 shots and made 12 of 17 free throws.

The Mountaineers' zone defense limited 7-foot Dave Newmark to two field goals and only one rebound. But McMillian drove through the zone and popped over it seemingly at will.

The victory, in Columbia's first appearance in the Festival, gave the Lions a 5-3 season mark.

Ron Williams led West Virginia with 28 points as the Mountaineers dropped their third game in seven starts.

St. John's, sparked by 6-foot-8 Rudy Bogard, cracked Syracuse's tough zone defense in the second half.

Bogard, held to one field goal and four points until midway of the second half, snapped a 42-42 deadlock with 9:11 remaining and the Redmen were ahead to stay on the way to their seventh victory in eight games.

The big St. John's center scored three more baskets down the stretch, combining with sophomore Joe DePre and Mike Rowland to widen the lead to eight points, 60-52, in the closing minutes.

Bogard finished with 12 points, one less than DePre, for the winners. Rowland and Richie Jackson added ten apiece.

Richie Cornwell topped the Syracuse scorers with 14 points and Wayne Ward had 12 for the Orangemen, 43 on the season.

In the opener, Terry Driscoll and Jack Kvanetz led Boston College's burst at the start of the second half, sending the Eagles on to an easy victory.

Leading 38-27 at half time, Boston College broke open the first game as Kvanetz, a 5-foot-4 playmaker, and the 6-7 Driscoll combined for 12 points in a 14-2 spurt.

Kvanetz hit two jump shots, Celtic Siegfried

Lost for Month

BOSTON (AP) — Larry Siegfried, Boston Celtics guard who was injured in a game Monday in New York, will be out for at least a month, a Celtics spokesman said Tuesday.

Siegfried is at St. Elizabeth's Hospital where his injury was diagnosed as a severe back sprain complicated by a possible protruding disc.

He is expected to remain in the hospital for three weeks. Siegfried left the game in the first half, complaining of a sore back.

AT EAST FOREST HIGH TONIGHT

Eagles Play Wolverines In Cage Tournney Opener

The opening round of the two-day Basketball Holiday Tournament being played at East Forest High School will start at 7 p.m. today with the unbeaten Sheffield Wolverines pitted against the Eisenhower Knights in the first game and the Pleasantville Falcons meeting the hosting Bears in the second contest.

The winners of this evening's action will meet tomorrow night at 8 o'clock for the Championship match. The losers will battle it out in the consl game at 7 p.m.. A special award will be given to the boy who is voted the most valuable player in the tournney.

The hosting Bears could prove powerful with several returning lettermen, however, they have failed to score a victory in the pre-league action. The closest game for Orange and Black was their opener with Johnsonburg where they fell to a 66-64 score. Other letais have seen an 82-65 decision to Clarion-Limestone and an 86-55 loss to North Clarion. Jim Gatesman has been the leading scorer for the Bears with close to a 15-point average per game.

The Pleasantville Falcons have picked up two wins so far by downing Jamestown 68-52 and edging Townville 67-51. The Falcons faced defeat in their back-to-back meetings with Townville by losing the second game, 54-36. Scoring high for the Falcons is Skip Reynolds. Reynolds netted 21 points against Jamestown in the opener and 16 in the last clash with Townville.

The Eisenhower Knights will be carrying a 1-3 slate into the tournney, their only win being a victory over the Alumni last Friday. The Knight attack will center around 6-7 Bob Burlingame. Burlingame has collected most of the points for the Blue and Gold, netting 40 against the Alumni, and is tremendous when it comes to blocking shots.

Also slated to make the starting five will be Tim Allen. Allen scored 32 points in last weeks battle with the Alumni and is pacing Burlingame for scoring honors. Jeff Lindell is the only other Knight picked for the starting five. The remaining positions are a toss-up between Alan Swanson, Earl Lohmes, Bob Russell, and Bob Sitter. These four boys have all shown good potential in the games.

The Blue and Gold squad played Sheffield two weeks ago and fell in a 104-78 romp. However, the team has gained much experience since their first meeting with the Wolverines and they will be out to get the "man on top."

The Sheffield squad is favored to win the tournney as they travel to East Forest with five straight victories under their belt. The last win for the Orange and Black came on a 79-61 "squeaker" with the Youngsville Eagles.

Continuing his rank as top scorer for the Wolverines is Wayne Swanson. Swanson carries a 26-point average for the five games, his best being the opener with El CC where he scored 33. Jeff Scallise has also been tallying for the Orange and Black with a 19-point average.

Other Wolverines besides Scallise and Swanson slated to make the starting five are Mike Steffan, Rick Grubbs, and Ted Morrison. Robbie Hart, Mark McGuire, Tim Hecl, Ken Blum and Dave Rounds should also see plenty of action on the hardwood.

7th Annual Quaker City Tournney Today

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The seventh annual Quaker City basketball tournament opens Wednesday afternoon with Wisconsin of the Big 10 and home-bred Temple lukewarm favorites in the field of eight college teams.

Making its first appearance in the tournament, Wisconsin meets a subpar Penn quintet in the first game of an afternoon doubleheader at the Spectrum. Temple faces Providence in the second game. At night, Arizona takes on St. Francis, Pa., and Villanova meets Duquesne.

The semifinals are slated for Thursday night with the championship game Saturday night.

Wisconsin has posted a 5-1 record, losing only to Notre Dame. The Badgers won the Milwaukee Classic over Louisiana State, and recently edged a fine Florida team. Penn is 2-3 and has lost its last three.

Temple, a pre-season selection as one of the best in the East, won its first five and then dropped a 63-60 decision to Davidson in the finals of the Charlotte Invitation. The Owls then were trounced by a surprising Pitt team. Temple will have light, good speed and excellent defense against a rebuilding Providence team, 4-3.

Arizona, led by 6-foot-7 Bill Davis, brings a 6-3 record against St. Francis, which has scored more than 100 points in its last two games. St. Francis, 4-2, is led by Norm Vanlier.

Duquesne could be the dark horse. The Dukes have a 6-1 record, including handy victory over St. Francis, Pa., and Villanova meets Duquesne.

Marquette and Ohio State open action Wednesday night with Hawaii and Northwestern playing in the second game. North Texas plays the Navy team and Houston meets Bradley in the Thursday games. The semifinals will be Friday and the final Saturday.

Houston is ranked second in the nation, trailing only UCLA. The Cougars have All-American Elvin "Big E" Hayes, a 6-foot-8 sharpshooter who has averaged 27.8 points a game during the last two seasons.

Bradley's candidate for All-American honors is Joe Allen, 6-6, who has led the Braves in scoring the last two seasons with averages of 18.5 in 1965-66 and 22.8 in 1966-67.

Marquette has lost Bob Wolf, Warrior scoring leader the past two seasons, but the second and third scorers of last year are back. They are George Thompson, who averaged 18 points a game, and Brian Burkhorst, who averaged 11.8.

Hawaii's vastly improved club should rate no worse than even against Northwestern, which is led by Mike Waver, 6-5.

Ohio State's leading performer is 6-7 Bill Hosket with prize sophomores Dave Sorenson and Nody Finney.

North Texas State has five of its top seven men of last season back, including 6-7 Hamp Hazleton and 6-6 Bill Cutter.

BoSox, Tigers Meet in Opener

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Red Sox will open defense of their American League championship at Detroit April 9 and will meet the Tigers again in their home opener at Fenway Park April 15 according to the schedule announced Tuesday night.

The home schedule lists 78 dates for the 81 games. The three doubleheaders are June 2 vs. Baltimore, July 7 vs. Minnesota and July 21 vs. Washington.

The team will be at home on only two holidays, playing single games against Cleveland on Patriot's day, April 19, and against Oakland on July 4.

The number of night games has been reduced to 36 from last season's record high of 40.

Rifle Club Holds Tournament Today

The WAHS Rifle Club will hold a holiday tournament at 10 a.m. today on the high school range. All club members, as well as alumni gunners, are invited to compete for prizes.

Cowboys Start Title Workouts

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys, champions of the National Football League's Eastern Division, ran through an hour and 15-minute workout Tuesday with defensive stalwarts Ralph Neely and Mike Gachter out with a touch of the flu.

A Cowboys spokesman said both Neely and Gachter would be back for practice Wednesday.

The only Cowboy definitely out of Sunday's NFL championship game with Green Bay is flanker Pete Gent, who suffered a broken ankle in Sunday's 52-14 victory over Cleveland.

The Cowboys will work out in Dallas through Friday morning. Friday afternoon they will board a charter jet for Green Bay.

Fight to Draw

BRESCIA, Italy (AP) — Billy Joiner of Cincinnati drew with Piero Tomasoni, Italian heavyweight champion, in a 10-round bout Tuesday night.

The four-day holiday tournament winds up with both afternoon and night games Friday and Saturday.

UCLA's Bruins, led by Lew Alcindor, are favored to win the tournament for the sixth straight time.

Unbeaten Tennessee, however, rates high in the national ratings and has size and talent. A Minnesota victory over UCLA would rank as the surprise of the year. The Gophers are paced by 6-foot-7 senior center Tom Konla, who led Big 10 scorers last year with a 28.3 average.

Utah State is a slight favorite over St. Louis. The Aggies feature 6-6 guard Shaler Hallmon. St. Louis can counter with one of the four 7-footers in the tournament, Rich Niemann, 7-0, 240, a senior center who is the team's leading scorer and rebounder.

The other giants include Alcindor, 7-1 1/2; Tennessee's Tom Boerwinkle, 7-0, and Southern Cal's Ron Taylor, 7-1.

Mao Tse-Tung at 74 Is Still Top Man in His Country

HONG KONG—Mao Tse-Tung, chairman of the Chinese Communist Party, who reached the age of 74 Tuesday, is still the top man in his country despite the arrested development of the revolution he launched last year to purge revisionist leaders and tendencies.

The revolution has become something of a salvage operation with Premier Chou En-Lai, seemingly a loyal Mao supporter, as the chief manipulator in efforts to patch up the disruptions it has caused.

However, Mao has at least removed from power individuals such as Chief of State Liu Shao-Chi, his former deputy, whom he considers a threat to his ideas and authority, and thus has made his dominance more secure than it was before the revolution.

In accordance with long-standing Communist party policy, there was no formal observance of or reference to Mao's birthday in Communist China. But the campaign of praise through the press and radio that has been going on for his leadership and political maxims was, if possible, stepped up, and parades were staged in Peking. It was reported from Peking that Jenmin Jih Pao, official daily organ of the Chinese Communist Party, devoted its entire front page to portraying the efforts that have been made to print and distribute the maximum number of Mao's writings. In many cities there were public exhibitions of his works, and both radio and newspapers carried reports about nationwide devotion to the study of his thoughts.

A dispatch from Hsinhua, the Chinese Communist press agency, announced that printing presses in China during the last year have turned out 76.4 million sets of Mao's selected works, 350 million copies of the little red book of his quotations, 47.5 million copies of selected readings from Mao and 57 million copies of his poems—a total of 530.9 million books and booklets.

Millions of Mao books, translated into 23 languages, have been distributed abroad. In addition, Mao badges by the hundreds of millions and portraits in all shapes and sizes have been produced.

A considerable part of the paper and metal industry in China has been turning out Mao materials. A Peking Radio report heard here Tuesday said only 13 plants were publishing Mao's works before the cultural revolution but now there were 180 in 28 provinces and cities.

The best evidence available here is that Mao remains in reasonably good health. He has seen numerous foreign delegations during the last year, made several public appearances and two tours from Peking into the Yangtze Valley.

Pictures indicate Mao has lost some weight during the last year, possibly through dieting. He still smokes.

Whatever the truth of reports some years ago that he was in poor health, it now seems he has overcome whatever the ailments were.

He has given long and intensive daily attention to supervising the cultural revolution and is known to write a steady stream of letters, directives and memoranda that goes out to officials all over the country.

An illustration of the intensity with which the Chinese people are being indoctrinated with Mao's thoughts was provided by an article that appeared recently in Chinese Communist papers about the Hung Ching farm brigade (a grouping of villages) which has been named as a model in the study of Mao's thoughts.

Members of the brigade not only had Mao study sessions before and after their long work day but carried the little red books into the fields to recite quotations aloud in unison during toil. Rest periods were likewise devoted to study.

It had been generally predicted that China's latest atomic explosion in Sinkiang would be announced for Mao's birthday, but up to midnight there had been no mention of the explosion, reported by the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission as a blast of low yield.

The only birthday greeting reported Tuesday to have been sent to Mao was announced by Hanoi Radio. The salutation came from North Vietnam President Ho Chi Minh, who conveyed wishes for a long life on behalf of the Vietnamese people, the Vietnam Workers (Communist) Party and the North Vietnam government.

Viet Prisoners Captured Nearly Double '66 Total

SAIGON (AP) — The number of enemy prisoners captured this year is nearly double the 1966 total, but it is small compared to reports of enemy soldiers killed.

Allied troops have taken 5,650 men so far this year, against 2,871 in 1966. A total of 8,891 prisoners is being held. About 1,500 of these are North Vietnamese army regulars and the rest are Viet Cong. About 300 are women.

The American, South Vietnamese and associated troops have reported killing 62,089 enemy troops so far this year, up from 57,383 in 1966.

Field commanders say it is very difficult to take North Vietnamese army regulars as prisoners. A zone U.S. officer who deals with prisoners said the situation "is not unlike that of Korea and Japan."

The Japanese in World War II and Koreans in the Korean War were reluctant to surrender in battle, often fighting to the last man.

"There often aren't many prisoners in some big battles," said the senior officer, referring mainly to large-scale fighting with North Vietnamese units such as the 21-day battle at Dak To in the central highlands last month.

"It isn't because we don't try to take them. I desperately want prisoners and do the utmost to get them. Often he (the enemy soldier) won't give up in the sense of surrendering in battle. He'll come in under the Open Arms program more often than he'll come in as a prisoner."

Under the government program to attract defectors, Viet Cong are allowed to come to the side of the government without recrimination.

According to military figures, the number of military defectors this year has surpassed last year's total—12,897 in 1966 and 17,158 through November this year. Virtually all of these are Viet Cong.

"I think they are indoctrinated," said one U.S. officer. "They are told they will be shot or badly treated and are afraid to give up. The North Vietnamese make a determined effort to keep their people from reading American leaflets. Political lectures counter our broadcasts. They are forbidden to listen to free world radio."

"About the only conclusion is that as the war becomes more intense, you're more likely to get prisoners and returnees," an officer said. "There are several reasons for this. The principal thing is that they just reach the breaking point simply because the war is getting nasty."

Stiff British Law Keeps Drinking Drivers Off Road

LONDON (AP) — Britain appeared Tuesday to have reversed the rising trend of Christmas traffic accidents by applying a stiff new law designed to keep drinking drivers off the road.

Not all the reports were in for the holiday weekend, but so far the year's death toll showed some dramatic decreases after rising steadily for several years.

The Ministry of Transport gave a provisional estimate of 86 killed on the roads from Friday through Monday, compared to 136 for the first four days of last year's Christmas weekend. There were 2,730 accidents reported so far, compared to 3,699 last year.

The Royal Automobile Club said the Christmas death toll was just slightly above the normal daily averages and called it "a welcome reversal of the disastrous trend last Christmas."

The automobile club reported that traffic volume was down, indicating that drivers were staying off the road to avoid being stopped by police and ordered to take a mechanical test to measure their blood-alcohol content. The test has been legal since October.

The Transport Ministry cautioned against trying to read too much into the figures because Christmas traffic patterns differ from year to year.

Englishmen take two days off to celebrate Christmas. In addition to the normal Saturday-Sunday weekend this year, Monday was a holiday for Christmas, and in England and Wales Tuesday was Boxing Day, also a holiday.

Thus the final test this year comes Tuesday night and Wednesday, when people drive home after the long holiday.

Under the law, police are allowed to stop a driver suspected of any traffic violation and order him to blow into a balloon with a special mouthpiece. If the crystals in the mouthpiece turn green, the driver must go to the police station for a blood test.

If the blood-alcohol content is above a certain level, the report is sufficient evidence for a drunken driving conviction. That means a heavy fine and suspension of a driver's license for at least a year.

Iraq President Calls Oil Firm A 'Bloodsucker'

(C) N.Y. Times News Service BEIRUT, Lebanon — President Abd Al-Rahman Arif of Iraq charged in a speech Tuesday that the western-owned Iraqi Petroleum Company was a "bloodsucker" and blamed "foreign oil monopolies" for the sabotage of the I.P.C. pipeline. The sabotage was discovered Dec. 1, 12 miles south of Kirkuk.

Baghdad newspapers had already accused the I.P.C. of sabotaging its own line, presumably in an effort to put pressure on the Iraqi government by reducing oil output and thus cutting royalties on which the government is financially dependent.

Arif's speech followed by two days the signing of an agreement by which the Soviet Union will provide technicians and machinery for drilling in Iraq's rich southern fields and will assist the government to market its petroleum produced. The president spoke at Baghdad University, and his speech was broadcast by Radio Baghdad.

Arif said "Iraq has succeeded in breaking the chains of western oil monopolies" and that "no pressure will deter us from attaining our national goals."

The damage to the pipeline did not halt oil pumping from I.P.C. fields, but newspapers reported that 60 persons had been arrested, one of them an unidentified doctor who was said to have been an employee of the company.

Ike Eliminates Romney As Serious Contender

NEW YORK (AP) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower is said to have eliminated Michigan Gov. George Romney as a serious contender for the Republican presidential nomination.

The 78-year-old general has told friends that his disenchantment with Romney is based on the governor's failure to take clear-cut stands on major issues — not on Romney's statement that he had been "brainwashed" on the Vietnam war.

"I think that statement was widely misinterpreted to mean something the governor did not intend to convey," Eisenhower said of Romney's "brainwashing" comment.

"But since then he has been on so many sides of so many questions that one begins to wonder just where he does stand," he said. "He sounds like a man in a panic. And a man who panics is not the best candidate for president."

The former president is quoted in a New York Times story from Indio, Calif., where he is spending the winter. It appeared Monday.

Though Eisenhower plans to attend the GOP convention in Miami if his health permits, he has been telling friends he does not plan to make any prior endorsements.

At the convention itself and during the campaign, he expects to play a minor role.

"Aside from doing what's expected of me at the convention I might make three or four speeches in support of a candidate that I can accept and support sincerely," he has said. "But I don't think I should go halfway across the country to give such talks."

Eisenhower reportedly confided to one friend recently that a Rockefeller-Rogers ticket might be regarded as "a rather obvious political contrivance."

He professes to have an open mind about New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller as a possible choice. But he said he believes that putting Gov. Ronald Reagan of California on a ticket headed by Rockefeller would be a mistake.

Eisenhower is quoted as having told a golfing partner that his major concern is coming up with a winning candidate — even if it means bypassing the best-qualified.

"Even if I had the power to name the next Republican presidential nominee, I would not necessarily select the man I thought best qualified to be president," he is quoted as saying.

"My reason for that is that no matter how well qualified I may think a man might be, he still has to get elected. And I would like to see the convention pick a man who can win over Johnson next November."

Operation Shoebox suffered a setback when 40 packages of gifts for ailing servicemen and veterans were stolen just before Christmas.

But some residents of southeastern Pennsylvania pitched in and more than made up the loss, according to Reddyfryn Township police.

Patty Harschberg, director of "Operation Shoebox," said 40 of the boxes, containing razors, candy and similar gifts, were stolen from outside her apartment Sunday morning. The operation had put together more than 1,600 similar boxes for men in military and veterans' hospitals.

When word got out that some of the boxes were stolen, residents brought other gifts and money in what Mrs. Harschberg said was an "overwhelming" response.

Two operating rooms were ready for the transplants when Dr. Stewart arrived, with escort help by the Ohio Highway Patrol from Conneaut. It took one hour and 15 minutes to make the trip.

Operation Shoebox suffers setback

PAOLI, Pa. (AP) — "Operation Shoebox" suffered a setback when 40 packages of gifts for ailing servicemen and veterans were stolen just before Christmas.

But some residents of southeastern Pennsylvania pitched in and more than made up the loss, according to Reddyfryn Township police.

Patty Harschberg, director of "Operation Shoebox," said 40 of the boxes, containing razors, candy and similar gifts, were stolen from outside her apartment Sunday morning. The operation had put together more than 1,600 similar boxes for men in military and veterans' hospitals.

When word got out that some of the boxes were stolen, residents brought other gifts and money in what Mrs. Harschberg said was an "overwhelming" response.

called the clinic and had colleagues find a blood type among the patients to match that of the Stivers boy.

Two operating rooms were ready for the transplants when Dr. Stewart arrived, with escort help by the Ohio Highway Patrol from Conneaut. It took one hour and 15 minutes to make the trip.

Shafer Orders New Year's Crackdown

MEADVILLE, Pa. (AP) — Gov. Shafer, obviously disturbed about the state's high Christmas weekend traffic death toll, ordered state and local police Tuesday to crack down on speeders and drunk drivers over New Year's.

"I vow to you, and to all Pennsylvanians tonight, that we are not going to allow the New Year's weekend to be a repeat of the past four days," Shafer said during a dinner celebrating the groundbreaking for the last link of Interstate 79 between Pittsburgh and Erie.

The governor's remarks were contained in a speech prepared for delivery at the dinner.

CAR DRIFTS WHILE OWNER SHOPS

Although little damage resulted, this 1962 Oldsmobile yesterday morning took off on its own in downtown Russell. Mrs. John McGann, of RD 2, Russell, parked her car in front of the American Hardware Store. While she was in shopping for groceries, the vehicle, which had been left in parked gear, drifted in a complete U turn through the intersection and ended up with its rear resting against the Country Kitchen building across the street. Ask Delay on Education Amendments

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Citizens Committee on Public Education in Philadelphia has asked a constitutional convention committee to delay hearings on an education amendment until after the holidays.

In a letter to the convention's tax and finance committee Tuesday, the citizens group noted hearings are scheduled Dec. 29 on a proposal to permit the use of public funds to aid nonpublic schools.

"Citizens Committee views this as an attempt to enact through the medium of the Constitutional Convention the substance of the so-called 'Mullen Bill, HB 1136.' That bill would likewise provide public funds to nonpublic schools, but it has been tied up in legislative committee in Harrisburg.

The citizens' committee went on, "we are not addressing ourselves at this time to the desirability of enacting the Mullen Bill, but we are protesting any procedure which would incorporate the... amendment into the constitution by the scheduling of a public hearing during the holiday period."

The citizens' committee asked that the hearing be postponed until the public "can be sufficiently apprised of this proposal, and have full and fair opportunity to respond at any public hearing scheduled."

Alan R. Howe, president of the citizens' committee, signed the letter.

high for a holiday or weekend in this state.

State Police Commissioner Frank McKetta has been ordered to assign every available trooper to highway patrol duty over the New Year's weekend, Shafer said, in a maximum effort to prevent accidents.

"Each trooper is being instructed to enforce the law to its letter with no leniency for those who decide to speed in order to get there faster or those who decide they need one more drink for the road," Shafer said.

Moreover, Shafer called on local police departments to crack down on all traffic violators.

"It is obvious to me that what many Pennsylvanians need is to be shown that we who are responsible for enforcing the law mean business," the governor said. "And this weekend we intend to show them just that."

Shafer also announced that he plans to investigate the Christmas weekend's accident record as part of the new safety program.

"I have asked the State Police to give me a personal report on each of the accidents that resulted in fatalities this weekend to determine what firmer action should be taken," he said.

Stressing that Pennsylvania spent a record $126.8 million on interstate road projects during the 1966-67 fiscal year, Shafer said the highways must not be allowed to become "a slaughter alley of mangled cars and bodies."

"The awful heartache that is connected to this senseless slaughter should make each of us more determined than ever to make Pennsylvania the Safe Driving State," he said.

Fatals Reach All Time High In State

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Traffic accidents claimed 47 lives in Pennsylvania over the holiday weekend, an all time high for a holiday or weekend in the Keystone state.

The number was second highest in the nation. Only California, with 53, recorded more traffic deaths.

The previous high for traffic deaths in Pennsylvania was 46, recorded July 3-7, 1963. During that period, 19 others lost their lives in other accidents. Over the Christmas weekend just completed, there was one other accidental death, a drowning.

Westinghouse Will Spend $5 Million for State Site

WALTZ MILL, Pa. (AP) — An industry-government program for developing fast breeder nuclear reactors is doing some fast breeding itself.

Westinghouse Electric Corp. said Tuesday it will spend more than $5 million at its site here for a major expansion of the program to build reactors for generating electricity.

Dr. John C. R. Kelly Jr., general manager of the firm's advanced reactors division, said: "The division was formed just 19 months ago with about 40 employees. Our present employment level of 220 is expected to reach 750 in the next few years."

Liquid metal fast breeder reactors are nuclear power plants which produce more fissionable material than they consume, and breed at a rate that will eventually reduce fuel costs for the generation of electricity to practically zero, Westinghouse said.

Kelly said the total cost of the program will be well over $100 million and will be shared by electric utility companies and the Atomic Energy Commission.

"The Atomic Energy Commission considers the timely development of the liquid-metal fast breeder reactor as the highest priority element in the U.S. nuclear program," Kelly said.

He added that more than 20 utilities have agreed to put money into the program and more are expected to join.

The Waltz Mill site, 25 miles southeast of Pittsburgh, has been chosen as the permanent headquarters for the division, Kelly said.

Kelly said most of the $5 million-plus will be spent for laboratory and office buildings.

TITUSVILLE — An Emlenton area man was killed Saturday afternoon when his pickup truck crashed on Route 208 near Knox.

Police said the victim, Roy Russell Jr., 44, of RD 3, Emlenton, was traveling west when the vehicle skidded into guard posts. Russell was thrown out onto the eastbound lane where he was run over by a car driven by Waldo S. Tipples Jr. of Cleveland, Ohio.

Clarion County Coroner J. Ward Kier reported that Russell was dead before the Tipples vehicle struck him. The accident occurred about 3 p. m.

Library Will Lend Books For Two Weeks

Mrs. Philip W. Coyle, director of the Warren Public Library, has announced that beginning Jan. 1, 1968, books will be loaned by the library for a two-week period.

The present policy of lending books for four weeks, initiated on a trial basis a year ago, has created a lengthy waiting period for those wanting a particular book already loaned out.

A two-week loan will eliminate waiting and result in more people being able to use the library materials.

Most materials loaned for two weeks will be renewable. Previously, books loaned for four weeks could not be renewed. In line with present practice, renewals will not be accepted by telephone.

The board of control of the Warren Library Association has determined this policy with the aim of providing better library services for residents of Warren County.

Kane Youth Charged For Setting Fire

KANE — Harry D. Gadley, 17, of Kane, who was involved with three other boys in setting fires in Kane and James City communities, has been re-arrested and specifically charged with the $100,000 McCluskey Lumber Co. fire.

Young Gadley, who had been out on $2,000 bail, was charged as an adult in the second warrant issued by Kane Police Chief Elmer Jones.

The youth was picked up Saturday morning and taken before Peace Justice Arnold Field at Hazelhurst. He has been committed to McKean County Jail.

Judge Glenn E. Mencer has named George A. Angell, an Eldred attorney, as public defender for the young man.

The other three youths were released in custody of their parents pending hearings in juvenile court.

Metal cartridges revolutionized the firearms industry and made the breech loading rifle possible.

Government Proposes 12 New Safety Rules for '69 Cars

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government spelled out details, and asked for comments, Tuesday on 12 more rules designed to make autos safer for their occupants and pedestrians and to force drivers to lock unoccupied cars.

The Department of Transportation asked for comments by Jan. 26 by industry, research and other interested groups. The rules had been announced earlier in the year in broad terms and technical details have now been developed.

One set of rules spelled out Tuesday would go into effect on autos manufactured after Dec. 31, 1968 and others after Dec. 31, 1969. Still pending are other rules proposed to take effect beyond those dates.

The rules that would go into effect after Dec. 31, 1968 would require:

- Head-rests on all passenger cars to reduce the frequency and severity of neck injuries in rear end collisions.
- Car locking systems to reduce accidental opening of rear doors by children from inside and prevent opening from outside.
- Improved hood latch devices to reduce the possibility of accidental openings— which obstruct the driver's view.
- Concealed-type headlights would be in open position in the event of failure of the shielding or rotating device.
- Multi-purpose passenger vehicles, trucks, buses and smaller cars would have safety factors now required on passenger cars for windshield wiping and washing systems, including a two-speed wiper.
- Performance standards be established for windshield defrosting systems and proper defroster requirements be extended to trucks and buses.
- Ornamental exterior protrusions be limited to no more than one half inch from the surrounding surface, unless constructed to tear away under a force of 10 pounds or more.
- Every passenger car have a vehicle identification number on a permanent part of the auto in such a way that removal or alteration would show evidence of tampering. The number would have to be inside the car but readable from the outside. Manufacturers could not duplicate a number for 10 years.
- The new standards proposed to go into effect on cars made after Dec. 31, 1969, would require:
- That all passenger cars have an ignition locking system that would warn the driver, when he opened his door to get out, that the key had been left in the ignition; have a locked position that would prevent the operation of either the steering or mobility of the car when anyone tried to start it without a key. The system would have to be designed to make it impossible to remove the ignition key without activating the safety device.
- That multipurpose passenger vehicles have safety standards for door latches, hinges and locks that now apply to other vehicles.
- Standards to minimize injury from glove compartment and other doors in passenger cars pop open in crashes.
- Windshields on passenger cars be installed in such a way that they would not become dislodged in an accident—a step aimed at preventing auto occupants from being thrown through the windshield opening.

Police Have Amusing Day

The early morning hours of Christmas Day proved amusing and somewhat confusing for borough police.

At 1:15 a. m. Monday, a call came in from a man who reported that his car had been stolen. After some search, the vehicle was found— right where the owner had parked it.

When the hour of 3:23 a. m. arrived, a second call was received, this one from another man who said he had parked his car and left the keys in. Upon returning to the spot, the car was not there.

Some time later, police stated, a third call was recorded when a third man stated he went out to get into his car and discovered to his dismay, the car wasn't his. Arrangements were made to return the vehicle to caller number two.

Two Involved In Corry Mishap

CORRY — Two Warren County persons were involved in a traffic mishap last week on Route 6 one mile east of Corry.

State police of the Corry substation said a car driven by Donald A. Carter, 31, of Bear Lake, stopped on Route 6 to make a left turn into North Shady avenue and a panel truck, operated by Carl J. Peterson, of Corry, stopped behind the Carter vehicle.

Police said, however, that a car driven by Darlene L. Smith, 18, of Warren, also westbound was unable to stop and rammed into the rear of the Peterson truck pushing it into the rear of the Carter car.

Miss Smith and Peterson complained of minor pains but neither required treatment.

Total damage was listed at $1,675.

Ann Landers

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: The letter from the LSD user caused a lot of talk on our campus. I heard some kids say, "That settles it for me." Can you use one more letter that might "settle it" for some others?

I'm a 20-year-old college student (male) who thought it might be a groovy experience to "expand my mind." I smoked a couple of joints (marijuana) and felt pretty good after the pot excursions. The next step for me was LSD. I figured if pot made me high, LSD would really zoom me out of this world. You wouldn't believe how easy it is to get LSD around here.

My first trip was fair but my second trip was bad—very bad. My third trip was agony. It took me three days to figure out who I was and where I was. That was two months ago and I'm far from normal as I write this letter.

In a crowd (study halls are crowded) I still get that up-tight feeling. Don't ask me what I'm afraid of, I don't know. A casual conversation usually turns into a heated argument. When anyone disagrees with me I become furious. Later I am filled with remorse and I get awfully depressed.

During these depressions all my character defects loom up in exaggerated form to plague me. I feel like the biggest liar, the laziest, most useless, rottenest person on earth. I get to thinking maybe I don't deserve to live and suicide seems like the sure way to take me out of my misery. Then a voice that sounds like God keeps saying, "You'll come out of this. Fight back." So I keep fighting.

I am luckier than most kids. My parents are great and they have been very understanding. I am under psychiatric care and I know now that one day I'll make it back.

I hope you will print my letter, Ann, and give me the opportunity to help some other stupid kid to learn for nothing what nearly cost me my life.—EX HIPPIE

DEAR EX-HIPPIE: Here's your letter and my thanks for writing it. Now, may I add a word?

There are no shortcuts to peace of mind and inner security. Contentment cannot be found in a bottle, a pill, a needle or on a sugar cube. The person who wants to get away from himself is the very one who can least afford to try it. He is the cop-out, the unstable, mal-adjusted personality who will crack when the going gets rough. He is the very one who should grab hold of something solid and hang in there for all he's worth.

No one ever solved a problem or dealt successfully with a crisis by running away from it. Drugs and alcohol are methods of escape. All they do is further befuddle and finally depress an already confused and unhappy person.

Physicians all over the country have reported an increasing number of psychotic teen-agers who have flipped out after experimenting with drugs. Some of these kids will never be rational human beings again as long as they live. What a terrible price to pay for a "groovy experience."

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Fritz is a good provider and has high morals. When I look around and see what some of my friends and relatives put up with from their husbands, I feel guilty about complaining but here goes.

The problem is that Fritz is a chronic knocker. I don't mind for myself because after 20 years I am accustomed to it, but I'm afraid his negative attitude is bad for our children. He knocks the school system, the city officials, the church, the neighbors, the federal government, the A.M.A., the U.S.O., the A.D.A. and the D.A.R. He is neither reactionary nor liberal. He is simply against everything.

When we sit down to dinner it's one destructive statement after another. I hate to say to the children, "Don't listen to your father." But I am deeply concerned that they will pick up his sour outlook on life. Comment, please.—THUMBS DOWN ON EVERYTHING

DEAR THUMBS: Attitudes are caught, not taught. When the conversation at home is weighted heavily on the negative side, the children are bound to grow up cynical and pessimistic.

Don't argue with your husband, change the subject. Turn the conversation to something you want the kids to be FOR. Praise the people who are doing the constructive things in the world. Talk about courage and justice and honesty. Kids need something to look up to more than they need something to look down on.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Can two women get married? I don't wish to go into detail as to the reason I am asking this question. You may assume it is either a gag (like to wish a bet) or perhaps the women are lesbians and wish to live together as "man" and "wife." What I need to know is would a marriage between two people of the same sex be considered legal.

Please don't toss this in the circular file. I am serious—G.C.N.Y.

DEAR G.C.N.Y.: If you know a couple of women who want to get married, tell them O.K., but not to each other. The word marriage means the state of being wedded to a person of the opposite sex.

In Illinois, failure to consummate a marriage in the sexual sense is grounds for annulment. Since it is understood that marriage guarantees the privileges of a heterosexual relationship, two members of the same sex could not possibly be considered suitable marriage partners.

Alcohol is no shortcut to social success. If you think you have to drink to be accepted by your friends, get the facts. Read "Booze and You—For Teen-Agers Only," by Ann Landers. Send 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Van Guilder-Kenney Wedding Held in Pittsfield Church

Miss Kathryn Elaine VanGuilder, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ware VanGuilder of Garland, and Pvt. Daniel Wallace Kenney, son of Mrs. Winifred Kenney of 11 Fifth Street, Youngsville, and Mr. Norman Kenney of 506 River road, Warren, exchanged their wedding vows on Saturday, December 16, in the E.U.B. Church, Pittsfield.

The Rev. H. Kenyon Leeshman, pastor of the Garland Presbyterian Church, officiated at the double ring ceremony. Wedding music was provided by the Rev. Howard Cartwright. Mrs. Roa Jones, cousin of the bride, accompanied by her daughter, Brenda, sang "I Love You Truly."

Escorted on the arm of her father, the bride wore a gown of ivory satin brocade in an a-silhouette. The molded bodice was fashioned with a narrow empire band tied in a pert bow topping the detachable panel train of chapel length. The skirt of the gown was designed with inverted side pleats topped with tiny bows. Long fitted sleeves tapered to wedding points. A profile spray of Alencon lace florettes sprinkled with crystals secured her bouffant veil of ivory imported silk illusion. The bride's flowers were a triangular cascade of white bridal roses and miniature carnations. Her only jewelry was a single strand of pearls, the gift of the groom.

Mrs. Karen Abraham, sister of the bride, was the matron of honor in a gown of gold ja-karta with a matching Dior bow headdress with butterfly veil. Her flowers were yellow pom-poms arranged in a pendant bouquet. Costumed similarly to the honor attendant, but in moss green, were the bridesmaids, Miss Joyce Abraham of Clar-endon, and Miss Susan Kenney sister of the groom.

The best man was Norman Kenney Jr., brother of the groom, of Youngsville. Ushers were Robert Humphrey of Garland and John Wilson of Youngsville. The mother of the bride chose a light blue suit and the mother of the groom was in a velvet dress of dark blue. Both had carnation corsages.

The reception was held immediately after the ceremony, in the church social rooms. The new Mrs. Kenney chose a gold suit and a white rose corsage for traveling to West Virginia. After December 30, the new Mrs. Kenney will reside at her parents home in Garland, while her husband is to report to Fort Lewis, Washington, and then leave for Vietnam.

The bride and groom are both graduates of Youngsville High School. Mrs. Kenney is employed in the office at Sylvania. The rehearsal dinner was given by the father of the groom at the Pittsfield Inn the evening before the wedding.

Hanukkah Festival Begins; Continues For Eight Days

Dr. Kurt L. Metzger, rabbi of Temple Beth-El, Bradford, Pa. B'nai Israel, Olean, New York issues the following statement at the occasion of the Hanuk' ah Festival:

Hanuk' ah, the Jewish "Festival of Lights" holiday, will begin at sundown this evening. Like many Jewish holidays, Hanuk' ah has a clear-cut historical and religious origin. The actual event which it commemorates, the Jewish struggle for religious freedom from the tyrannical reign of the Greco-Syrian King Antiochus Epiphanes, is known to have actually occurred in 165 BCE.

For the Jewish people, Hanuk' ah symbolizes the victory of the spiritual ideal over military and political despotism. A handful of Jews, determined to preserve their faith and their traditions, openly defied the overwhelming power of the Syrian King, Antiochus, who was determined to suppress Jewish monotheism and its proper observance.

When in the year 168 BCE Antiochus ordered that the Temple in Jerusalem be used for pagan practices and that sacrifices be offered there to the Greek god, Zeus, the Jews under the leadership of Judas Maccabees rebelled and achieved military victories which culminated in the reconquering of Jerusalem, the expulsion of the Syrians, and the purification of the Temple.

According to legend, all the oil for the holy lamps of the Temple had been defiled by pagan worshippers. Only one untouched cruse of oil was found, sealed and hidden away. The oil which was enough to last only for one day, lasted miraculously, for eight days. Hanuk' ah is celebrated by Jews everywhere by lighting candles every night of the holiday, beginning with one the first night, two on the second, etc., until finally on the eighth night, eight candles blaze in the Hanuk' ah menorah, or candelabrum. This progression is also a symbol of Judaism's belief in the gradual, constant

Living Costs High? Buy More Gas!

Women worried about the high cost of living can have more money to spend at the supermarket simply by buying more gasoline when they visit their service stations.

Automotive engineers advise that filling the gasoline tank instead of buying a dollar's worth can save you money, according to Carol Lane, Women's Travel Director for Shell Oil Company.

The most obvious benefit is not running out of gas. This is costly in terms of time, money, aggravation and danger.

It can happen day or night, in traffic or on a lonely road. A full tank of gas also helps avoid stalling. "The less gas in the tank, the more room for condensation to form; and condensation leads to fuel line freezing and carburetor icing—causes of stalling," Miss Lane noted.

She advises women drivers to shake the "dollar's worth" habit and start saying, "Fill 'er up," for a full tank does wonders for a woman's peace of mind — and for her pocket-book.

 Failure to provide against adverse distribution in the opponent's suit South a vulnerable game contract.

West's jump overcall of three hearts is based on a good suit and the reasonable expectation of being able to win seven tricks in his own hand, inasmuch as the bidder should be able to limit his loss to 500 points if he is doubled.

When North passed three hearts, South was reluctant to merely rebid three spades which would not be forcing. Since he held 13 high card points and a good suit facing an opening bid, he took the bull by the horns and proceeded to game without further ado.

West opened the ace of hearts and continued with the queen. Declarer covered with dummy's king and East ruffed with the six of spades. The latter switched to a club and South finessed the queen which lost to West's king. The ten of clubs was returned and declarer was in with the ace.

Trump were drawn in two rounds and then the queen of diamonds was put thru. When East turned up with the king, South's contract went on the rocks.

Finding both minor suit kings offside and encountering a seven-one division in hearts was admittedly unfortunate; however, declarer could have taken measures to protect himself against such extreme adversity.

If he permits West to hold the second trick with the queen of hearts, East is unable to obtain the lead in time to make the fatal club shift. If West continues with a third heart, South can overruff East, draw trump and then take the diamond finesse with the assurance that, even if it loses, North's suit will provide the necessary discard to dispose of the queen of clubs. His losses are restricted to two hearts and one diamond.

Withholding the king of hearts sacrifices a potential overtrick but it provides declarer with control over the subsequent play and keeps the danger hand out of the lead. South should have paid greater heed to West's three heart bid. The possibility of a seven card suit was by no means remote.

Your Horoscope

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars. FOR WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 27, 1967

ARIES (March 21 to April 20)—An average day if you so regard it but, if you strive a little harder, rewards will be gratifying.

TAURUS (April 21 to May 21)—Not much planetary help here, but you have such a fine mind, so many talents and such an ingratiating personality that you should be able to sail along on your own momentum.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21)—Most Gemini's prefer to do things in their own way, but there are times when one MUST conform to established systems. Try to be cooperative now, when too great an expression of your individualism could cause resentment.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23)—An "on-and-off" day, but you should come through handsomely if you stress your quietly clever manner of handling situations and your tact in dealing with others.

LEO (July 24 to August 23)—How you make use of time and talents will count heavily now. Unusual proficiency will be required to carry out mid-week undertakings so that you may wind up the week satisfactorily.

VIRGO (August 24 to September 23)—Avoid the illogical and close your eyes to the dubious schemes of others—no matter how attractively they may be presented. Let your head rule your heart.

LIBRA (September 24 to October 23)—Keep everything ship-shape, lest things get out of hand through inattention. Experience should teach—not discourage. Your efforts will net top rewards. SCORPIO (October 24 to November 23)—Some complex situations indicated, but don't be anxious. Your innate competence and proficiency in handling the unforeseen should see you through. Just be prepared to "expect the unexpected."

SAGITTARIUS (November 23 to December 21)—Pitch into activities with verve, confidence, your unusual know-how. If new propositions are made, however, give them careful study. Don't be caught off guard by surface glitter.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 20)—You may now be in a mood to consider every situation as a "problem." DON'T! This only causes anxiety, retards progress. Face all squarely and, with your innate intelligence and ingenuity, tackle each as it comes along—with confidence.

AQUARIUS (January 21 to February 19)—Avoid haste. You'll have ample opportunity to advance—with vision, smart tactics, and a determination to maintain an even pace, take all in stride.

PISCES (February 20 to March 20)—Your innate gifts of successfully defending principles and the rights of others will be called upon now. You can stop the ill-adviced and misinformed in their tracks.

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with a fine mind; are accurate, concise when that friend is important. You are gregarious of heart and make friends among all classes. You have many talents; could succeed as a scientist, astronomer, or doctor. Birthdate of: Johann Kepler, astronomer; Louis Pasteur, chemist.

How to Keep Well

By Dr. T. R. Van Dellen

ARTIFICIAL VALVES
 Replacing a scarred heart valve with a plastic device is a common procedure. There are a number of different artificial valves and, more recently, surgeons have fashioned valve cusps out of fibrous tissue obtained from the legs. The mortality rate attending the technic is extremely low considering that most of the persons have a handicapped heart and are poor risks for any surgical procedure.

Two San Francisco surgeons have done cardiac valve replacement on 85 patients. Of the 35, 10 were 60 or older. Nine of the 10 survived showing that age is no barrier. All had serious heart trouble involving one or more valves.

These operations are done with the heart exposed and open. During surgery, the individual's needs are maintained with a heart-lung machine that bypasses the cardiac structure. Blood is poured thru the coronary arteries to maintain viability of the heart muscle.

In the operating room, a dozen or more physicians and nurses work as a team. While some are doing the operation, others are monitoring pressure, oxygen supply, urinary output, acidity of the blood, and other vital body functions. At the completion of surgery, the heart is restarted and the victim is watched carefully until his heart and other organs are functioning normally.

In another series, the valve was replaced in 18 pregnant women. The risk of continuing to term with a heart that was failing was too great. The medics would have preferred to replace the valves before pregnancy, but in these individuals, they had no choice. All women recovered and delivered their babies successfully.

Valve replacement is no longer a new procedure. Altho the technic was late in coming, it has made up for lost time. The key is "teamwork" between many specialists in several related fields.

TOMORROW: Growth Hormones and Pygmies.
 Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

IS CHEWING NECESSARY?
 J. D. writes: Must food be chewed well?

REPLY
 Yes, but not to the point of being ridiculous. Meats and vegetables leave undigested residues hence they should be broken up into smaller pieces because they require more chewing than bread and cheese. It is surprising how many people bolt their food without developing digestive disorders. On the other hand, digestion begins in the mouth.

INSULTING PEOPLE
 C. M. writes: Is it true that people who are insulting and make cutting remarks are unsure of themselves and have an inferiority complex?

REPLY
 Yes, and many of these people face the possibility of being forced to eat crow at a later date when insults do not prove effective under similar circumstances. This trait is also found in cocky persons and those who have made or inherited money.

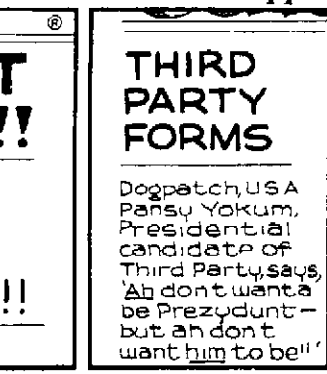

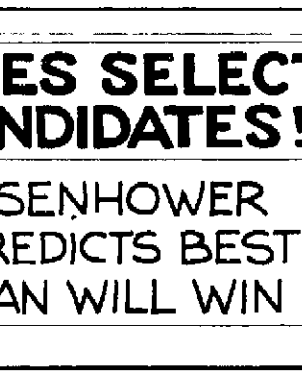

ALCOHOL HAS DRUGLIKE ACTION
 J. M. writes: How does alcohol intoxicate a person?

REPLY
 Alcohol exerts druglike action on certain centers of the brain. The effects depend upon the concentration of the substance in the blood, and the manifestations vary from loquaciousness to coma.

HAPPY NEW YEAR

Ludlow Area News

By MRS. HILDUR WENSTRAN

Christmas Eve services were held at Moriah Church with the Rev. Carl F. Ellason delivering the message of the birth of Jesus. The choir sang the old traditional Swedish anthem, "Lyssna" "Hör du Anglas-angen," "Glory to God" and "One Star".

There were a number of visitors home for the holidays that attended.

The Cub Scouts with their leaders Mrs. Neil Davidson, Mrs. Dean Walters, Mrs. William Campbell and Mrs. Wolfgang, went caroling and visited at the homes of shut-ins on Wednesday evening and presented each one with a box of homemade cookies.

The Auxiliary Volunteer Police and their wives held a Christmas party and turkey dinner at the Legion Hall Saturday evening with 24 present. After the dinner they played games and danced.

Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Johnson left for Pittsburgh Tuesday to visit at the home of their daughter Deloris and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Lee. They will see their new granddaughter born on December 17th, weighing 7 lbs. and 13 ounces and named Carrie Beth. She has a sister Julie.

Mr. and Mrs. Terrance Gardner and children of Erie were Christmas holiday guests at the home of Mrs. Eva Jones.

Mr. and Mrs. James Christenson and children Wendy and Paul from Ellisabeth, Pa., spent Christmas at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Christenson.

Mr. and Mrs. James Markey have returned home to their Ludlow home after having been in East Liverpool, Ohio, for several months.

Guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Hanson over Christmas have been Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Hanson and son Bill of Glenshaw, Pa.; son Dean from the University of Arizona; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Richards of Jamestown, N.Y.; Miss Nellie Downing, Buffalo, N.Y.; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hanson, Warren and Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence McCluskey of Kane.

Mrs. Edna Kellogg of Lakewood, N.Y., is a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Swanson during the holidays.

The children of the Moriah Church Sunday School were given a party by their teachers at the church following their practice for their Christmas program. They were treated to refreshments and each received a gift from the Sunday School.

Mrs. Mabelle Nelson, left Christmas Day for a visit with her son and family, Mr. and Mrs. James Nelson in Harrisburg for a few days.

The candlelight services were held Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock with a very good attendance. The Rev. Carl F. Ellason gave Scripture and prayer. Moriah Church Choir, with Mrs. Raymond Shaffer as organist, Mrs. Mabelle Nelson as director and Leland Engman as soloist, opened with three anthems. Miss Mabel Peterson was leader for the program. Mrs. Robert Olson gave the welcome and prologue for the program.

The Christmas tree had over 100 chrismons and 250 small white lights. The chrismons were the art work of the Dorcas Circle for the past two years. They are symbols and crosses and in white and gold to symbolize purity, perfection and majesty and glory of the Son of God. Mrs. John G. Johnson has been chairman for this project.

The program was in five parts: "The Rose in the Desert," "Who Is This Child," "What Is This Child To Do?" "What Does This Child Give?" and "What Child Is This?" The children of the primary department then presented their program with Mrs. Lawrence Larson and teachers.

There was only one child with perfect attendance, Yolanda Johnson, daughter of the Senior Sunday School Superintendent. She was given an award by Mrs. Lawrence Larson.

Poinsettia plants were in memory of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Johnson and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dickenson, by Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Johnson. The meeting closed with the lights dimmed as the audience sang "Silent Night."

Refreshments were served to all by the service committee.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Porterfield, son Robert and infant daughter Heather Lyn from Key Biscayne, Fla., arrived at Pittsburgh Airport Tuesday. They were met by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest W. Swanson where they will spend the Christmas holidays.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Johnson and daughter Kristen Ann of Gettysburg are spending Christmas with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Evert C. Johnson.

Mrs. E. F. Huber, Mrs. Robert E. Wenstran and Mr. C. H. Gardner were guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Muir in North Warren over Christmas.
